Rumania Legation in Berlin Asserts That Story From Bucharest Is False

THE case was that of a union official who had called a strike to enforce the payment of a disputed claim of a workman to back pay, which the courts were open to collect. It was the collection by the coercion of a strike, instead of by due process of law, of a private claim wholly within the ordinary jurisdiction of the courts, and it tied up, to collect that claim, an essential public service. If there is any such thing as an unjustified strike, and if any tribunal is authorized to determine whether a strike is justifiable or not, this was a plain case of unjustification. The Kansas law so defined it, and the defendant Dorchy, was convicted under this law. The union appealed, on the ground that the right to strike collectively is as absolute as the right to quit individually; and that any law restricting this right, even in cases where obviously it ought not to be exercised, is unconstitutional. The Supreme Court held otherwise.

THE right to quit individually is practically absolute. With or without reason, any one who does not want to work at a particular job has the unconditional right to quit it. Otherwise, he would be held in "involuntary servitude" against the "fourteenth amendment." If the military service, or a sailor at sea, or a fireman at a fire, or a policeman in an emergency, are exceptions, it is for reasons which do not vitiate the rule. The unions had contended that the same absoluteness of right, regardless of reason, applies to quitting collectively, and to issuing an organization order to do so. The decision, once for all, puts an end to this claim, and by authority from which there is no appeal, except to armed revolution to overthrow the government of the United States, fixes the law that states have the right to make reasonable regulations on the subject.

THE writer recalls with pleasure making the same argument a dozen years ago to the California legislature. The legislature did not agree with him; but the supreme court does. This was the argument then made:

"The right to quit individually is nearly, but not quite absolute. The soldier, the sailor at sea, and a few others, are apparent exceptions. But the right to quit collectively, or to issue orders to quit, is a social right, because it is a social act. It may, therefore, also be a social wrong. It is consequently within the competence of organized society, represented by government, to pass laws protecting this social right, and preventing this social wrong. The strike, being a remedy against injustice, should not be restricted except where another remedy is provided. But if society does provide a remedy, it has the right to require that remedy to be used. In private, competitive business, where men can get other jobs, and employers can get other workmen, the right to strike is nearly absolute, and there should be a few or no laws on the subject. But in the public services, without whose continuous operation modern life can not go on, it is the right of society to provide other remedies, and the duty of labor to use them. And this duty may be enforced."

THIS is now the law of the land. Members of the propertied classes, who think that this law must now be respected just because it is law, by those whose ideas of right and personal liberty it offends, will do well not to make too many arguments against the duty to accept another law, which they think curtails their own liberties.

WOMAN CON- QUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorber, of 704 Dellwood Place, wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company.

"If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a burglar was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorber continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask 'How is housekeeping?' and he says, 'It is just like being in Heaven!'"

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Queen Marie, of Rumania, came to America to escape the political intrigue of an old world court.

She became the unwilling center of another tangle that cut short her projected tour of the United States and virtually forced her to flee back to Rumania.

And now comes word that the illness of her royal husband, King Ferdinand, is serious and not a diplomatic illness; that his death may follow; and Queen Marie is on the high seas with the prospect of the most involved intrigues of all ahead of her.

Question of Regency

Compared to the question of who might become regent of Rumania, all of the pretty bickerings of her American trip become insignificant.

There will be the question of whether she will remain the power behind the throne; whether her hopes can become head of the kingdom; in short, the question of who will retain control. These problems she must work out in the midst of all the intrigue and bargaining for which the Balkans are famous.

With Marie on the Atlantic, the book of her American tour is closed and it is possible to review it and take stock of the amazing events of which the American public caught only an occasional glimpse—events which may be doubly interesting in view of the intrigues to come.

Purposes of Visit

Queen Marie came to America for several reasons. She wanted to see the country; she wanted her son, Nicholas, whom she is grooming for the throne, to get a glimpse of affairs in the great republic, and she undoubtedly had an eye to the future commercial or economic advantage to Rumania of having its queen well known and possibly well liked by the American people and in American governmental, social and financial circles. But a fourth and perhaps the primary reason, was her desire to escape the involved political intrigues of Bucharest and allow her government to adjust affairs to her satisfaction without the embarrassment of her presence.

Marie is the power behind the throne. Ferdinand is king and she has no official status, but she wields the unseen scepter and, in the American phrase, what she says goes.

The reasons for her abrupt return, at the request of the crown, undoubtedly lay in the unpleasant publicity over the squabbles which marked her entire trip. All hands, including the queen, felt she was "losing face" and a return on the good pretext of the king's illness was advisable. What part the political developments in Bucharest during her absence played in the recall was not known here.

Plotting Transferred to U. S.

Curtailment of the queen's tour ended a situation which virtually was the transfer of the plotting of a European court to a special train speeding over the landscape of the world's greatest republic.

The center of the storm was Lole Fuller. Miss Fuller is an elderly woman, a former ballet dancer. She has known the queen since her Majesty was crown princess and is her intimate friend.

The chief objection to Miss Fuller lay in the charge that she planned a series of "benefit" affairs by her troupe of ballet dancers at nearly every important city touched on the tour, which the queen would attend and by her presence attract an enormous and lucrative audience. Opponents of Miss Fuller objected to the profit she would reap and the "exploitation" of the queen.

After the fiasco of the first performance, held in the Metropolitan opera house, in New York, the American sponsors of the tour forced cancellation of the others.

Actors on Troubled Trip

The leading persons in the turbulent affairs of the queen's trip, in addition to Miss Fuller, were:

1—Ira Nelson Morris, retired diplomat, wealthy member of a Chicago packing firm and personal friend of the queen. At her invitation, he went on the trip to have charge of all social arrangements.

2—Stanley Washburn, former war correspondent and member of the wealthy Minneapolis milling concern, also a personal friend of the queen, who was invited by her as her personal aide.

3—J. H. Carroll, corporation counsel for several railroads and friend of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio. He was asked by Willard to take charge of the trip, which was over the B. and O. and affiliated lines. He was in sole charge of the train and arrangements.

4—Samuel Hill, wealthy non-lawyer of the late James J. Hill and long time personal friend of the queen. Dedication of his "museum" near Portland, Ore., gave the queen an official excuse for extending her trip to the west coast.

5—Miss May Birkhead, personal representative of Miss Fuller.

6—The Rumanians in the party, headed by Professor Petresco, as personal representative of Premier Averescu, and M. Lapeyre, gentleman-in-waiting to the queen.

The trouble started before the queen's arrival.

First Clash Occurs

The first clash arose when train arrangements were made in New York. Carroll assigned Morris to

TWO LA HABRA WOMEN KILLED AND FOUR SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN CAMP STOVE EXPLODES

Two La Habra women are dead and four others, residents of Los Angeles and Norwalk, may die as the result of an oil stove explosion in a cabin near Mt. Baldy.

The dead are Mrs. Grace Carey, 51, wife of N. H. Carey, prominent La Habra rancher, and Mrs. Hattie Beaver, 71, mother of Mrs. Carey. The injured are Mrs. Clara Owens, Norwalk; Mrs. Lillian Murray, Los Angeles; Mrs. Lillian Owens, Norwalk; and Mrs. Irene Nuffer, Norwalk.

The injured women are in the San Antonio hospital, Upland, where they were rushed immediately following the accident.

According to word from the hospital today, the conditions of the four women are serious.

An exploding oil stove was the direct cause of the tragedy. According to reports, the stove exploded while the women, with several friends, were preparing a Thanksgiving dinner. The party went to the cabin early Thanksgiving morning.

Nearly campers heard the explosion and the screams of the injured women and rushed to their aid. Blankets were thrown about the victims and they were hurried from the cabin. Mrs. Carey died first, and a few hours later, her mother passed away.

Those who left Thursday morning on what was to be a merry Thanksgiving party were Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Carey, La Habra; Mrs. Hattie Beaver, La Habra; Raymond Mettler, La Habra; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Owens, Norwalk; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Owens, Norwalk; Mr. and Mrs. H. Nuffer, Norwalk; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Culp and daughter, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Murray, Los Angeles.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carey and Mrs. Beaver will be held in the First Friends church, Whittier, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment in the Whittier Heights Memorial park. The Rev. H. M. Moore will officiate.

The queen, it was generally believed, needed the money which she obtained for her newspaper articles on her tour, although she announced the money would go to charity.

More criticism arose because of the "commercialism" of the queen's writing and her endorsement or use of American products, such as motor cars, watches, cosmetics and similar things. In such a charged atmosphere, the royal special pulled out of New York.

Activities Too Elaborate

Before West Point was reached, trouble began. Morris laid detailed plans for the social activities of the trip. Carroll objected that they were too elaborate and too strenuous and Washburn sided with him, saying the queen must be protected from endangering her health. The alignment of Carroll and Washburn versus Morris persisted for the remainder of the trip and neither side at any time was on speaking terms.

At Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa further disagreement came between Morris and Carroll over the use of automobiles in visiting those cities, social precedences and the like.

At Winnipeg, Carroll suggested firmly to the queen that Morris be invited to leave the train when the party got back into the United States at St. Paul. The queen suggested it would be too public a split and asked Carroll to try to get along with Morris. It was a temporary deadlock.

At St. Paul, Miss Fuller, who was unable to board the train at New York because of personal business, tried to join the party. She had with her Miss Birkhead and Mrs. Alma de Bretteville Spreckels, of California, a friend of Hill's.

Objects to Mrs. Spreckels

Carroll was willing to take Miss Fuller and Miss Birkhead, but said the Rumanians objected to the inclusion of Mrs. Spreckels. In the interest of peace, the three women followed the special on a regular train.

At Spokane, they did board the special as guests of Hill in his private car which was attached there.

On the coast, arrangements virtually had been left to Hill, as it was his "party" out there.

At Portland, Mrs. Spreckels gracefully left the party. At the horse show that night, the dissension came out in the open when Hill and Washburn almost came to blows.

On the way to Seattle, friends kept them apart by strenuous efforts.

At Seattle and Vancouver, Washburn kept to his car, but Carroll decided the situation was impossible and informed the Rumanians that Hill would have to leave the train. Despite her friendship for Hill, the queen was compelled to assent.

Moves to Washburn's Car

Carroll then moved into Washburn's car and permitted Miss Fuller and Miss Birkhead to occupy his car, as his car was greatly distressed over the treatment of Hill, wept considerably and held long conferences with the queen. The Rumanians eyeing them askance. Before Denver was reached, Carroll announced an effort would have to be made to get the two women off the train.

Petresco precipitated matters by telling the press that the queen would be "very glad" if Miss Fuller would leave. That the queen denied and Petresco was forced to retract.

However, at Denver, Carroll and Washburn were trying to persuade Miss Fuller to leave, and at the last minute she was transferred to a regular train and started back to New York.

Word came from the queen of mysterious cablegrams in code and references to the king's health, then, at Indianapolis, the definite announcement of the cancellation.

The country as a whole was astonished, but most of those on the train knew midway in the trip that the "court on wheels" and its intrigues would be short-lived.

KNOX CHAIRMAN OF PORT BONDS CAMPAIGN BODY

John Knox was selected general chairman of the Santa Ana committee of the Orange County Harbor Improvement association at an organization meeting of the Santa Ana group, held last night at the chamber of commerce headquarters.

Weather conditions prevented many of the committeemen from attending the meeting last night and another meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 Tuesday night in the chamber of commerce offices. Committees will be appointed at that time, according to Knox.

Santa Ana will have a willing group of workers in the harbor entrance bond campaign. Four men will be stationed in each precinct in Santa Ana to get out the votes.

M. S. "Robbie" Robinson has been appointed chairman of the transportation committee. Robinson will see that cars are supplied in every precinct to carry voters to the polls.

ANOTHER DELAY IN HEARING FOR GAINES HINTED

Already twice postponed, the preliminary examination of Albert Dewey Gaines, charged with the murder of Joseph J. Patterson, will again meet delay when the case comes before Justice Kenneth E.
Morrison, next Tuesday, it was learned today.

Counsel for the state and the defense are prepared to file a stipulation that the date of the hearing shall again be reset, for the convenience of the defense. Attorney George Halverson, of defense counsel, will be engaged in court in Los Angeles on November 30, it is said, and would be unable to appear in court here then.

The new postponement will change plans of the prosecution by reason of the fact that Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley will not conduct the prosecution of Gaines. Mozley's resignation from the district attorney's office is scheduled to take effect December 1, a month ahead of the entry of the new administration of Z. B.
West Jr. Mozley and Kenneth H.
Burns, another deputy district attorney, will enter private practice in Santa Ana. Burns will not retire from his present post until January 1.

District Attorney A. P. Nelson has not yet announced who will take charge of the Gaines prosecution. The preliminary examination will close the present district attorney's connection with the case, the trial remaining to be conducted by Nelson's successor.

Gaines was charged with the murder of Patterson, jointly with the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin, American Catholic priest, who already has been convicted of the crime and sentenced to hang next January 14.

DAVIS GETS LETTER FROM HUBERT WORK

No one in Santa Ana has watched more keenly the career of Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, than has Attorney S. M.
Davis. The two men were classmates in Indiana and have kept up a correspondence since that time.

A few days ago Davis received from Secretary Work a pamphlet, entitled "Then and Now, a Review of the Work of the Interior Department, 1923-1926," in which the many beneficial changes under Work's administration are outlined.

In a personal letter to Attorney
Davis, Secretary Work said:
"I note what you say about your interest in the Boulder dam.
Of course, that project has been advanced farther during my time here than ever before in its history and we are still interested in it, but have to contend with the usual local conflicting interests and the unfortunate attitude of Arizona toward it."

Woman Injured As Autos Crash

Katherine Adkinson, 2138 Myrtle avenue, Long Beach, suffered cuts and bruises, when the automobile in which she was riding with E. U.
Sanders, 2258 Olive avenue, Long Beach, ran into the rear of another machine on the San Diego highway, Thursday, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office yesterday. She was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where medical attention was given her.
She was discharged from the hospital last night.

WANT NEWPORT DESIGNATED AS SEAPLANE BASE

A movement to have Newport bay designated as a seaplane base by the government is being fostered by the Santa Ana Air club, according to announcement today by
B. E. Morland, commodore of the Santa Ana club.

It is probable that a petition will be sent to government officials in the near future setting forth the advantages of Newport bay as a seaplane base and asking the officials to give the bay consideration. The bay is directly on the seaplane route from San Pedro to San Diego and several times seaplanes have been forced to alight there.

The Santa Ana Air club soon will erect a clubhouse at the Eddie Martin airport, South Main street and Newport road. The decision to erect the clubhouse was made following the purchase of a complete aeronautical library.

According to Morland, the Santa Ana flying club will be the only one in Southern California to have a headquarters where visiting flyers may retire and enjoy a few quiet hours. The newly-acquired library is one of the most complete on the coast. The club plans to keep open house at its new building.
Everyone interested in aviation is invited to enjoy the hospitality of the club.

HOLIDAY SPIRIT IS IN EVIDENCE ON EVERY SIDE

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

Only yesterday 'twas Thanksgiving; only tomorrow 'twill be Christmas, so swift the procession of golden autumn days. And the first holiday was something like a preparatory course for the second.
The two days are so closely allied —in one we are grateful for temporal gifts. In the other, our praises well up for the spiritual gift of the Little Lord Jesus.

On every side, the Christmas spirit is suggested. The scarlet involure of the poinsettia gleams from almost every dooryard and the holly red berries of the cotoneaster glisten on long, slender sprays amidst the silvery green leaves.

Yule Spirit in Shops
But it is in the Santa Ana shops that the very spirit of Christmas seems to reign. Such gleaming gifts, such fascinating fashions, such quaint conceits are shown on every hand for the approval of holiday shoppers. And everywhere is holly pictured, yes and mistletoe and reindeer and Santa Claus himself. And the tinsels and gay ribbons without which no Christmas package is complete.

Amidst all this colorful array selected by discriminating merchants, it would be an easy matter to choose the things of dear delight for those we love best.
And then there are the children—not only those of our own and our neighbors' homes, but those sad small people who have no daddy to play Santa Claus for them. We mustn't forget them.

Nor the lonely stranger in our midst, nor the friendly lad who uns our errands, nor the heart-hungry folk in hospitals. All must be remembered with something selected from the bright array offered for our approval.

Spirit of Christmas
But ah, we mustn't depend upon the gift alone for Christmas cheer.
The Spirit of Christmas must go with it. What was it Lowell said in "The Vision of Sir Launfal"—

"Not what we give, but what we share.
For the gift without the giver is bare.
Who gives himself with his alms,
feeds three,
Himself, his hungry neighbor and Me."

That is true Christmas giving.
And "The holy supper is kept indeed" if we accompany every gift with a bit of ourselves. Nor need it be an expensive gift and fine;
it may be simple indeed, if it bears with it the true love and Christmas spirit that every gift should carry.

For value in Christmas giving does not lie in the monetary cost of the gift. It lies in the spirit that actuated the gift.

"It is not the might of jewel or plate
Or the fondle of silk or fur;
'Tis the spirit with which the gift is rich
As the gifts of the Wise Men were."

And we are not told whose gift was gold
Or whose was the gift of myrrh."

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GIDEON'S THREE HUNDRED

Text: Judges 7:4-8, 19-21

And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee; and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

So he brought down the people unto the water; and the Lord said unto Gideon, Every one that lapped of the water with his tongue, as a dog lapped, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that bowed down upon his knees to drink.

And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men; but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

And the Lord said unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped will I save thee, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand; and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets; and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men. And the host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch; and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

And he three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpet in their right hands to blow withal; and they cried, The sword of the Lord and of Gideon.

And they stood every man in his place round about the camp; and all the host ran, and cried, and fled.

In the lesson dealing with Caleb's faithfulness and reward it was said that "the land had rest from war." Such a happy condition did not last. Israel in the new home was surrounded with enemies, and foolish courses of the children of Israel, Israel's worst enemy was in some measure herself. The evil an foolish courses of the children of Israel "delivered them into the hands of Midian seven years."

But now, as in the days of bondage in Egypt, a new leader had arisen with the divine call to deliver his people from the oppression of the Midianites.

It is a sad picture of Israel under this oppression, with the people living in dens and caves in the mountains so that they might escape from the ravages of the Midianites, with safety for their crops, their cattle, or themselves.

Spirit of Gideon
Gideon was engaged in the very practical business of threshing wheat for the winnowing to hide it from the Midianites when the divine call came to him to effect the deliverance of his people.

But with Gideon, as with Moses, shown in the way in which he

ABOUT CHAFFEE COMPANY MARKETS

"The Chaffee Markets of today are just as much Chaffee institutions as they were when operating in conjunction with the Chaffee stores which were sold to the Safeway Stores corporation last March," said Elmer Jordan, local representative of the Chaffee company, today. It was the stores alone that were sold, the markets being retained and operated by Chaffee company, Mr. Jordan said.

With the disappearance of the large Chaffee signs which distinguished the fronts of their former stores, they gradually giving way to the name "Safeway," many people are mistakenly thinking that there no longer remains a Chaffee Market in such location.

Not only does Chaffee company continue to have a market in each original Chaffee-Safeway store, but they have been experiencing an active period of expansions which now finds them operating in both Piggy-Wiggly and Von's chains.

Chaffee company now operates one hundred markets in Southern California; all finely equipped with the most modern devices for sanitary, expeditious and pleasing service to their patrons.

RECKLESS DRIVER DRAWS JAIL TERM

Charged with reckless driving and speeding 60 miles an hour, H. W. Wilson, 1439 East Twenty-second street, Los Angeles, a colored iceman, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail when he was given a hearing, today, before Justice Kenneth Morrison.

Wilson was arrested by Jimmy Cain, state officer, on Thanksgiving day when the former was returning from Tia Juana.

Cain testified that the Wilson machine almost struck two pedestrians at the side of the road.

Wilson told Justice Morrison that the arrest would probably hurt his business.

Fines totaling $197.50 were levied against erring motorists in Justice Morrison's court yesterday.

OPINION VARIES ON RELIGION IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Varying views as to the advisability as well as practicability of establishing week-day religious education for public school pupils, such instruction to be handled by designated church agencies in co-operation with the public school authorities, are contained in replies received to a questionnaire sent out a short time ago by J. A. Cranston, superintendent of the Santa Ana city schools, to all county and city superintendents in the state. Cranston is a member of the California Council of Education and chairman of a special committee appointed by that body to investigate, report upon and make recommendations regarding the desirability and practicability of establishing week-day religious education for public school children.

Altogether 96 questionnaires were sent out, 58 to county superintendents and 38 to city superintendents. Although the contents of the replies will not be released until the committee submits its report to the Council of Education, it was intimated that there is a marked divergence of opinion as to the desirability of the proposal. Some superintendents are absolutely opposed to any arrangements that would make the public school authorities a party to religious education. On the other hand, there are others who take a more tolerant view, believing that the schools should co-operate in such an undertaking.

Not a few take the stand that the matter of providing religious instruction for school children is one that properly belongs to the home and the church. In this connection, the suggestion is advanced that, inasmuch as Saturday is not a school day throughout the country, this day could be utilized by the churches for giving religious instruction.

According to Superintendent Cranston, the belief is entertained in educational circles that the home and the church are trying to saddle the schools with a new duty, one that properly is their own.

Here are a few of the questions contained in the questionnaire sent out by Cranston.

Do you favor week-day religious instruction?

Should such instruction be given during the school day and pupils excused on the request of their parents?

How much time should be devoted to such instruction?

What do you consider the best plan to follow?

The committee, which in addition to Superintendent Cranston, includes R. D. White and Albert Vandegriff, of Los Angeles, met today in Los Angeles to discuss the various phases of the proposition.

Mule Kick Found Cause of Death

A coroner's jury yesterday found that Juan Aristo, 29, whose body was discovered Thursday in the mule corral of a Laguna Beach road camp, came to his death from a hemorrhage, caused by the kick of a mule.

The inquest was held in the Smith and Tutill Funeral parlors. There were marks on the body which showed that Aristo had been kicked, it was said.

Young Couple Wedded In Home of Relatives

Miss Georgia A. Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross of Whittier, and Irvin L. Johnson, son of Charles A. Johnson of Ventura, chose Santa Ana as the scene of their wedding, a quiet but charming event of Wednesday, November 24, at the home of Mrs. Grace M. Noe, 628 North Garnsey street.

Mrs. Noe is an aunt of Mr. Johnson's and adorned her home with flowers to compliment her nephew and his bride. The Rev. E. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, was officiating minister and guests were confined to the closer relatives of the young couple.

Miss Ross chose satin crepe in rich brown shades for her wedding gown and carried a cluster of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Johnson and his bride left for Los Angeles where a wedding supper was to be served as the first feature of their honeymoon. The young people will make their home in Whittier where they will receive their friends at 134 Bright avenue, after December 1. Mr. Johnson is with the Nash garage in the Quaker city and his bride has been bookkeeper for a Los Angeles business house.

Confederate Veterans Are Entertained at Southern Dinner

An old-fashioned southern dinner planned by Col. R. S. Kimberlin to honor Confederate veterans of the Civil war, their wives and widows, was a delightful event of Wednesday at which honor guests were General Simmons, state commander of the Veterans, and Mrs. F. B. Harrington, state historian.

The dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Harrington and was preceded by a friendly meeting in the community house of the First Christian church where the roll of veterans was called by Colonel Kimberlin and General Simmons gave a splendid address. In this, the speaker, a man of commanding personality, told of the splendid advancement made in every way since the war, as for instance in the matter of equipment as evidenced by the World war, but more notably by the strides the world is making towards peace, and the harmony with which different sections are working towards that end.

Mr. Beard, of Orange, gave a brief talk and then Colonel Kimberlin introduced Mrs. Harrington, who spoke on the principles for which the south went to war. She laid special emphasis upon the use of the term "Civil War," asserting that it should rightly be called the war between the states. She concluded her talk with a number of interesting reminiscences of famous generals of the South, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Freeman, Stuart and others.

Following her talk, Colonel Kimberlin directed his guests to the cafe where his delightful hospitality was expressed in the well-laden tables that took most of them back to the old days of spareribs, hominy, cracklins, co' pone, beaten biscuits and other famous dishes of the old South.

To the great interest of the guests, their host demonstrated how the Confederate soldier cooked his meals, first rolling out the bread on a square of oil cloth then wrapping it around a stick and browning it over the campfire. Meat, too, was broiled on the end of a stick held over the fire.

Colonel Kimberlin made a thoroughly delightful host, and all enjoyed his lavish hospitality and the friendliness which dictated the dinner and interesting meeting with the state officers.

Relatives from Afar Arrive to Join in Family Reunion

Thanksgiving was indeed a home-coming day at the home of Mrs. L. T. Bishop, 813 Riverline avenue, for sons and daughters, brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces came gaily trooping in, in response to the invitation of Mrs. Bishop and her daughter, Miss Ruth Bishop, until nearly all members of the family in America were there.

For the parents of the hosts were born in France and the family of two brothers and two sisters and their children is rather a small one. Each of the branches was represented, one brother, A. A. Bost, coming from his home in Robstown, near Corpus Christi, Texas, the others assembling from Southern California homes.

Two great turkeys formed the basis of the feast served at midday at tables colorful with chrysanthemums and trailing smilax. The afternoon was given over to the happy reminiscences of a united family.

Judge and Mrs. E. T. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Carter Benner of Los Angeles, Miss Ruth Bishop and Donald Bishop were the children gathered for the holiday while brothers and sisters and their families were A. A. Bost of Texas, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnstone and young daughters, Dorothy and Jean of San Dimas; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bost of Ontario and their family, the Misses Helen and Margaret, twin sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schaefer and 8-months-old baby son, Bobbie, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Patton. Then the party included also Robert D. Forster and Mrs. Margaret Turner, a globe-trotting cousin from London, Eng.

A. A. Bost will remain for a short visit with his relatives here and in Ontario before returning to Texas.

Family Group Gathers For Thanksgiving Feast Day

A delightful Thanksgiving dinner and entertainment was that at the Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wieseman home, 2411 North Park boulevard, when all of the children of the family gathered for the holiday.

These were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stauffer and their tiny son, William David, not yet three months old; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wieseman and Miss Helen Wieseman. Wee Willie David gave a green crystal ball to every one in his enjoyment of his first Thanksgiving and adding to the happiness of the day was the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. George Schieferle and daughter Ruth, old family friends who arrived in the morning from San Diego and were over-night guests.

When the happy group assembled around the table, they were served with an enormous turkey and other delicious dishes by the hosts. Mrs. Wieseman served a green crystal ball to every one in his enjoyment of his first Thanksgiving and adding to the happiness of the day was the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. George Schieferle and daughter Ruth, old family friends who arrived in the morning from San Diego and were over-night guests.

In the afternoon the men retired to the garden to pitch quoits in which Mr. F. W. Wieseman and Mr. Schieferle were declared champions. In the evening, after a light supper, games, music and cheerful conversation sped the hours happily ere the younger married couples had to return to their homes.

Further Details of Junior Music Club

To clear away a misunderstanding regarding the Junior music club to be organized among the younger musicians of the city, Ione Tunison Peck (Mrs. Arnold Peck) who is prominent in the organization movement, today explained that while the age limits for members were to be from 8 years to high school age, that did not mean a general organization in which the beginners took part with the more advanced students.

For while the organization will function as a single society, it will be composed of two separate sections, one formed of music and expression students from 8 to 12 years of age, and the other composed of students of the high school age. This plan was adopted as being fairer to the young people forming the society and will be elaborated for their information by Mrs. Herbert M. Sammis at the organization meeting.

This will be held at the Santa Ana Conservatory of Music tonight at 7:30 o'clock, and Mrs. Sammis, chairman of music in the Southern District Federation of Women's clubs, will aid Mrs. Peck and other interested musicians, in launching the new organization. This will be entirely self-governing, the older musicians merely lending their counsel and aid.

All expression and music pupils, no matter what their instrument, will be eligible for membership, and all are asked to attend the organization meeting tonight.

Junior College Dance Is Holiday Event

Honoring the football players of Santa Ana junior college team, a motif of the gridiron was used at the student body dance held last Wednesday night in the Women's clubhouse of Orange where about 100 pretty co-eds and their escorts gathered for the affair, which was in charge of Miss Kate Benton, social chairman.

Everything, even to the decorations, carried out the idea of the gridiron. Goal posts were at each end of the floor. Punch was served "water boy" fashion, in bottles. Junior college colors of purple and white were used in decorating the hall. Miniature pompons, made by a committee of girls headed by Miss Benton, were given out to the dancing couples during the evening. The pompons also were in the purple and white colors of the college.

Most of the football players, honored by the event, were present. James Smith, captain, and others of the squad that represented the Santa Ana junior college on the athletic field, were heroes of the hour for the co-eds.

The dance was the second student body affair to have been held this season. Those assisting in decorating the hall were Miss Elaine Smith, Henrik Van Rensselaer and Allan Goddard. Pompon favors were made by Misses Enid Twist, Mary Elizabeth Rutledge, Jean Campbell, Lois Winslow, Evelyn Metzger, Louise Stephenson and Kate Benton.

Lincoln School Staff Is Entertained by Mrs. Hughes

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hughes at 2082 North Main street, was the rendezvous of a group of former and present teachers of Lincoln school, one evening of the Thanksgiving week, when the young matron (formerly Miss Nellie Irvine) entertained her former associate teachers at a delightful party, proving her charm and graciousness as a hostess.

Pink and yellow flowers adorned the home, and a delicious little supper was served, guests finding their places by means of Thanksgiving name cards. Three of her former pupils assisted Mrs. Hughes in serving, the Misses Mildred Spicer, Ruth Owens and Helen Bower.

The evening was spent in clever and amusing games, and Mr. Hughes added to the enjoyment by singing a group of songs for which Miss Maxine Zolman served as his accompanist. Among the songs were "Daddy Boy," "I Hear You Calling Me," "On the Road to Mandalay" and a group of "Bayou Songs" by Lily Strickland, all sung in his usual delightful manner.

Enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were Miss Linda Paul, principal of Lincoln school; Mrs. George Sherrill, Mrs. Frances B. Hart, Mrs. Edith Bohannon, Mrs. Wilbur Woods, the Misses Minnie Pannum, Priscilla Allen, Doris Schenck, Alma Steward, Bernice Boyd, Maxine Zolman, Pauline Zolman, Edna Ingham, Joanna Eilers, Lotta Blythe and Berthena Selway.

Thanksgiving Reunion Of "Happy Hearts" With Mrs. Ford

The Happy Hearts, that little organization of high school girls who carried their friendship out of school days and into homes and offices, celebrated the Thanksgiving season with a happy meeting yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Guy Ford entertained at her home on Buffalo street, for a visiting Happy Heart, Mrs. Frank Biggs of Oakland, formerly Miss Helen Remsburg.

Mrs. Biggs is down to spend Thanksgiving week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, 1701 North Main street, and yesterday's party was the first reunion of the club since her arrival.

Mrs. Ford asked her guests for luncheon which was served at one long table in the dining room, a table bright with red roses and candles in holiday colors. Nut cups and place cards all emphasized the holiday motif.

In the afternoon, the card tables arranged in the living room were called into play and place cards did double duty as tallies. Mrs. John Cannon holding high score at the afternoon's close, was presented with a silver inlaid crystal candy jar, while second prize of a hand-embroidered guest towel was presented Miss Inez Petz and a compact little traveling manicule for Mrs. Biggs.

"Happy Hearts" gathered for the happier reunion included in addition to hostess and honoree, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Biggs, Mesdames John Cannon, George Paul Jr., Floyd Knight, Harold Yost, George Parker, Don Andrews, Paul Witmer, Otto Jacobs, Miss Norma Wingood and Miss Inez Petz.

Gathering of Clan Is Happy Feature of Holiday

One of the most interesting and enjoyable of family Thanksgiving reunions was that of the Hansler clan, which gathered forty strong at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hansler at Garden Grove.

Being a family reunion, the day marked the coming of the elder Hanslers to Orange county half a century ago from their old home in Canada to the place where they still reside. The eldest of the family is 85 years of age and the youngest, one year. Of the forty members, eighteen were born on the Niagara peninsula, Canada, where the Hansler family has lived for generations.

After coming across the continent by train to San Francisco fifty years ago, the remainder of the trip south had to be made by boat.

Those of the company coming from Canada had a thrill to find the long tables for the feast set on the spacious lawn, the turkeys for the sumptuous menu being raised on the farm, accompanied by Canadian chestnuts, almonds, oranges and other good things brought from far places by some of the guests. The air froze, but was thoroughly enjoyed to the accompaniment of happy reminiscences.

Those who came from afar were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Phillips of Iowa, Mr. Phillips having been born 85 years ago in what is now the city of St. Catherine's, Ontario, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hansler of Fenwick, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark of Fonthill, Ont.

The participants in the joyous day, aside from the hosts, were their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Miller of Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Evans, of Anaheim; the Misses Erna and Catherine Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hansler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Newson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rice; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harris, of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Maxine Zolman and Wendell Newson; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hansler, Mrs. Marie L. Harris, Mrs. Mary E. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Larter, Hansler Larter, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, and Mr. and

DR. CRAIN SOON TO LEAVE FOR WOODLAND POST

Dr. A. N. Crain, assistant health officer of Orange county, who resigned his position a few weeks ago to accept that of county health officer of Yolo county, will leave next Tuesday for Woodland, where he will take up his new duties.

In Woodland, county seat of Yolo county, Dr. Crain will organize a county health department under the supervision of the International Board of Health and the Rockefeller foundation, to be modeled along the lines of the Orange county health department. Selection of Dr. Crain for this important position had the approval of the California state board of health and the endorsement of the executive of the Rockefeller foundation.

The vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. Crain will be filled in time to make the appointment effective January 1, inquiries revealed. It is understood that Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, who returned from a two weeks vacation, now is considering a number of applications for the position held by Dr. Crain.

Valuable String Of Pearls Stolen

A string of pearls with a platinum clasp, set with a diamond, and other articles were stolen from the home of Frank Mills, Garden Grove, late yesterday afternoon, while members of the family were away from home, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office.

A strong box, containing several valuable papers, and a suitcase were among the articles taken from the house. The thief used a pass-key to gain entrance.

Deputy sheriffs are making an investigation.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Christian Church
A very enjoyable afternoon was spent last Tuesday by the south-west section members of the First Christian church Missionary society who were entertained in the attractive home of Mrs. E. G. Summers, 624 South Ross street.

Great clusters of poinsettias were used to heighten the friendly charm, was the fire blazing on the hearth and throwing its kindly rays on the guests as they discussed business matters of the section and planned future activities.

Late in the afternoon, all were invited to the dining-room where appetizing refreshments were served by Mrs. Summers and her co-hostesses, Mrs. N. A. Cox, Mrs. Ernest Potts, Mrs. Nelson Smith and Mrs. C. E. Price.

First Presbyterian
Welcome to the charming home of Mrs. H. M. Sammis on East Washington avenue, the northeast section members of the First Presbyterian Aid society gathered Wednesday afternoon for their November meeting.

A short business session was held at which plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in the parlors of the church on the afternoon of Tuesday, December 21. It was a stormy afternoon, but the home and the companionship were so cheery that the goodly number of members present forgot the storms without, and entered with zest into enjoyment of games and contests planned by the hostess committee.

To close the entertainment, plum pudding and coffee were served by Mrs. Sammis and her hostesses, Miss Mary Craig, Mrs. Harry Westover, Mrs. Clyde Bach, Mrs. A. J. Alberts and Mrs. John Sauer.

Ebell Travelers

A bright fire on the hearth of the lounge in Ebell clubhouse, yesterday made the room a cozy setting for the third travel section members, gathered to share one of the most interesting meetings of the year.

This section is making an exhaustive study of Canada, so after a brief period of greetings and business, Mrs. Charles Carothers, leader, introduced Mrs. N. A. Beals, principal speaker of the afternoon.

Mrs. Beals' subject was the Early History of Canada and she brought in the traditional discovery, explorations, early settlement manners and customs in a thoroughly interesting manner, giving her hearers a clear insight into early Canadian days.

Mrs. H. G. Newton, of Ontario, (Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Newton being daughters of the late George Hansler); Miss Ruby House and Mrs. Effie Swayze.

When It Rains, It Pours; Not Salt, But Cold Dollars

"Rain, rain, go away.
"Come again some other day."
A service station proprietor on West Seventeenth street sings an entirely different tune. He prays for the rain. For it means increased receipts for him. His station is situated near a water break across the highway. When the rains flow freely the water break fills up. Unwary motorists fail to slow down for the low spot in the pavement. Water splashes into their motors and their cars stall.

After vain efforts to get their engines percolating, the frantic drivers approach the station with a plea for assistance.

"I'll start 'er for you for four bits. No start no pay," the proprietor says.
Eighteen cars were stalled near the service station recently and the proprietor was successful in starting all but one. He collected fees on all, however. One had to be towed into Santa Ana and he furnished a tow car. Profitable? Well, say yes.

OFFICIAL VOTE CANVASS WILL START MONDAY

Official canvass of the vote on incorporation at Placentia will be started Monday by the county board of supervisors, it was announced today. The count is expected to verify returns showing that the proposal carried by a comfortable margin.

Whether the official count also will confirm the tie vote cast for three candidates for office of city trustee was being awaited with interest today. If the tie stands, a special election will be necessary, it is said, to make a choice between the three candidates, C. H. Chormide, G. W. Cowan and Joachim Queyrel, each of whom was credited with 91 votes on the face of returns of the election. W. W. Krick, Andrew Ipsen, Harry Easton and S. P. Harmony were the four candidates elected.

That the duty of calling a special election to break the tie vote will fall to the Placentia city council is the view of legal opinion, it is said. The county supervisors, having instituted proceedings by which the city has incorporated, will not retain jurisdiction over the special election proceedings, if such are launched, it is believed.

Rites Monday for Seal Beach Man

Funeral services for William Ahern, Seal Beach drug store owner, who died in a Long Beach hospital Thursday night, will be held in the Cleveland parlors, Long Beach, at 2 o'clock, Monday afternoon.

Mr. Ahern had lived in Seal Beach for 12 years. Before locating in Seal Beach, he was a member of an acrobatic team playing in vaudeville.

Mr. Ahern is survived by his wife.

When Your Boy and Girl Is Through Here—

Buying Home Products Will Create Places for Our Boys and Girls Later on As Well as for Every One Who Is Now Seeking Work or Advancement

Your Action Is of Vital Importance and Far Reaching—It Comes Right Home

How about the future of that boy and girl? Are you doing everything you can to make it bright?

They are students today. Tomorrow they will be strivers in the trades, professions and business forces.

Will there be a place for them in this community when they are ready to put their brains, skill and training on the market? Will there be a chance for them to exercise their talents right here at home? Or will they have to go somewhere else to find an opening? Ask yourself that. And then consider what your own action means.

We can create desirable places and big opportunities in advance by continually buying the goods that are manufactured in Santa Ana and Orange County.

Encouraging the local industries by conscientious patronage is a guarantee that our young people will not have to leave us to get a chance to live and succeed.

It will mean 1000 new jobs seeking men and women to fill them within a year. It will mean that the graduates next June will be better paid in July. What splendid assurance that this community will always appeal to live, talented and ambitious people.

$
$
$

Buying the Made-at-Home product makes more future opportunities and ALSO multiplies opportunities right now in every line of work.

It means that those who graduated in the past can make good in the present. It spells E-X-P-A-N-S-I-O-N instead of contraction. It wipes out the possibility of repeated rebuffs in job seeking. It fills the empty homes and offices. It makes advancement surer and more frequent.

All this without expense to you. Without sacrificing quality in the goods bought. Without inconvenience—simply insisting on home products when PRICE AND QUALITY are equal. Will you do it?

We must have your help to make this movement a success. We must have your help to insure places for the boys and girls who are going to work next year and the next year, and for your friends and neighbors who have a living to make now. The dollar you pay for foreign made goods, when you can buy the same product that is made at home, is lost to this community forever. If the dollar is paid for Made-at-Home products, it will circulate around in Orange County and we will have a chance to see and use it again and AGAIN.

LAGUNA BEACH COAST HIGHWAY PAVING JOB TO COST $213,000

Contract Will Be Awarded December 24, According To Semi-Official Report

LAST IMPROVEMENT NECESSARY ON ROAD

Roadbed 80 Feet Wide Will Be Laid for Distance of 7800 Ft. Through Town

Paving, to cost approximately $213,000, will be laid through Laguna Beach, on the Coast highway soon, according to a semi-official report released from the office of the state highway commission, setting the date for the awarding of the contract as December 24.

The paving through Laguna Beach and the oiling and surfacing of the remaining stretch, from Arch Beach to Serra, will form the last major improvement necessary to connect Long Beach with San Diego via the coast route with a hard surfaced highway.

For a distance of 7800 feet through Laguna Beach, the state will lay a 20-foot paving on a roadbed 80 feet wide. The county supervisors have allowed $15,000 to assist the property owners in improvement District No. 5 in paving the remainder of the 56-foot roadway. Thus the property owners will be paying $163,000 for the paving. For two blocks, between Myrtle and Astor streets, the roadbed will be graded 100 feet wide. Paving will be 72 feet, with five-foot sidewalks on each side.

Although the state department merely is continuing its work in this district, the county and property owners' money for the improvement was raised through a petition circulated by M. Elliot West, manager of the Yoch estate.

WORKING ON GRADE
Construction is still in progress on the Mountain Springs grade, which is located between San Diego and El Centro, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Although the road is somewhat rough in spots, motorists will experience no difficulty.

SEA WALL FINISHED
Work has been completed on the new sea wall along the coast, between Ventura and Santa Barbara, states the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The sections formerly occupied by the old wooden causeways have been filled with dirt.

Ash Is Sales Manager For Overland

George Ash has been appointed sales manager for the Willys-Overland Sales company, at 517 North Main street, to succeed J. W. Carter, resigned. With an exception of a period of 10 months in 1924, Ash has been identified with the Willys-Overland company here since 1913, when he became associated with his father-in-law, F. L. Austin.

GOLDEN STATE STANDS HIGH IN HIGHWAY WORK

Only eight states in the union spent more money on their state highway systems than did California last year, according to official reports from the U. S. bureau of public roads. When the last legislature failed to enact measures providing money for new highway construction, nearly two years ago, it was announced that the state would have no money to spend on its highway system, but it would appear from the official reports that the pessimistic outlook was not justified.

During 1925 California fared comparatively well. The government reports show that the total expenditure by state highway departments in all states in that year for road and bridge construction and maintenance on state highway systems amounted to $649,125,101. California's portion of this expenditure was $18,090,728. This sum was greater than any of 39 states and was exceeded only by eight.

Huge Bond Issues Voted
It also is noted that in most of the states exceeding California last year in highway expenditures, their road building programs were just getting under way and that they had voted huge bond issues for highway construction so that temporarily, at least, large sums were available. California passed through the experience of peak expenditures following the voting of bonds several years ago. From 1909 to 1919, $73,000,000 in bonds were voted. Substantial mileage of improved roads has been accumulated in the states which conducted the bond issue plan years ago. Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, New York and Pennsylvania in recent years have voted huge bonded indebtedness for state highway construction. In such states the road program now is largely one of maintenance and betterment.

Big Year Expected
It is believed that the showing of the state highway system work in 1926 will be good, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. The outlook for 1927 indicates that there will be approximately

FLAGMAN WILL BE PLACED AT SERRA STATION

Santa Fe Line Arranges For Protection of Public At Grade Crossing

Death curves and dangerous crossings are steadily being eliminated on state highways in Orange county. The latest safety measure announced in the county is the stationing of a flagman at the crossing of the Coast highway over the Santa Fe railroad tracks at Serra station, below San Juan Capistrano.

The state railroad commission today announced the decision to place a flagman at the crossing. The railroad commission arranged for the flagman with the Santa Fe railroad.

The flagman will be maintained at the crossing by the railroad company, pending proceedings for the separation of the grades at this important highway intersection from the railroad tracks, which is proposed by the transportation division of the engineering department of the railroad commission within the next year, the report states.

When the new highway below Laguna Beach is completed, it is expected that the road will become one of the main traveled highways in Orange county.

MOTORISTS LIKE CHRYSLER WHEELS

Introduction by Chrysler of the 18-inch base wheels on the new Chrysler "70," recently announced, has caused unusual comment in automobile circles because of the many advantages of this wheel over the ordinary type, according to R. W. Townsend, Santa Ana Chrysler dealer.

"There are eight important features of this new small wheel which were developed by Chrysler engineers," Townsend said. "With its use are noted increased lowness of the car, accentuation of long lines, 10 per cent increased braking efficiency, larger balloon tires, one-piece rim and perfected wheel balance, greater road stability, a lower center of gravity with road clearance above the average, greater ability to withstand road shocks and side thrusts, and easier tire changing."

RECORD IS SET BY TOURIST BUSINESS

More automobile tourists entered Southern California during the first 10 months of this year than during all of last year, according to a report of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Since no check is made on cars coming by way of the Pacific highway routes, the obviously large total of machines that come from other states over these roads can be estimated. Exclusive of these routes, however, the official count by state forces at all other highway ports of entry show that 154,574 foreign cars entered the Southland during the first ten months of 1926 as compared with 154,694 machines during the entire year of 1925. Every car carries an average of three persons, who spend $5 apiece per day during an average stay of six weeks, according to estimates of the automobile club.

WHIPPET, DRIVEN BY CANNONBALL BAKER, SETS RECORD IN GAS ECONOMY ON JOURNEY FROM NEW YORK TO SAN DIEGO

City Marshal Claude Rogers congratulating "Cannonball" Baker (at wheel) on the remarkable record he made recently in driving a Whippet from New York to San Diego, 3409 miles, on an average fuel consumption of one gallon of gas to every 34.69 miles covered on the run. A visit to Santa Ana by Baker was made the occasion of the gathering of dealers in the county and a parade of Whippet cars, 17 machines being in line. Seated with Baker is A. H. Means, official observer for the American Automobile association, who accompanied the pilot on the cross country trip. To the rear of Rogers is J. W. Carter, who has just resigned the management of the Willys-Knight-Overland Sales company, 517 North Main street. He has been succeeded by George Ash.

ROBINSON WILL OPERATE ONLY SUPPLY DEPOT

M. S. Robinson, who for the last four years, has conducted a battery and electrical service station and a supply depot for welding equipment and supplies at 111 Spurgeon street, announced today that he had sold his battery and electrical business to David Rouse, formerly of Orange.

At the same time Robinson revealed that he would continue in business at his old location and that he would specialize in acetylene welding equipment and supplies, together with oxygen and acetylene gases which are used in the process of oxy-acetylene welding.

"As this is a day of specializing, I have decided to concentrate my entire time and efforts in serving welders of Orange county," Robinson said. "My slogan for the last two years has been 'everything for the welder' and under my new arrangement I will be better equipped than ever to make that slogan operative."

"Since coming to Santa Ana I have been distributor for Prest-O-Lite gas tanks and acetylene appliances. I still retain this distributorship, along with the distribution of Prest-O-Lite welding equipment and supplies, such as rods, flux, goggles, hose, etc."

AVERAGE FUEL CONSUMPTION ON TRANSCONTINENTAL TRIP ONE GALLON TO 34.69 MILES

"Cannonball" Baker and the Whippet car with which he established a trans-continental fuel economy record by averaging 24.69 miles to the gallon of gasoline were in Santa Ana recently. The visit of the pilot and the car was made an occasion for the assembling of the dealers and salesmen in the county and a parade of 17 Whippet automobiles.

WOMEN LIKE NEW KIND TIRE CHAINS

"Women automobile owners who drive their cars during the winter, and who have an aversion to the use of chains because of the inconvenience of putting them on their tires, or taking them off, should consider the new rubber chains this year," Hubert Bown, the Goodyear dealer at the Citrus Service station, First and Spurgeon, said this week.

"In the past many accidents have been caused on slippery streets because cars were not shod with chains, and the reason many drivers, particularly women, did not use chains could be found in the fact that old-fashioned chains were difficult to handle and apply."

"The rubber chains, quiet and long-wearing, removes most of the trouble in application, and in addition, when the chains are once on, the car can be driven over pavements without injury to the tires, or the disagreeable noise of metal links pounding on the road surface or the fenders of the car. The new chains are popular with women drivers."

MOST KILLINGS BY MOTORISTS ARE AVOIDABLE

Drivers between the ages of 20 and 30 years are the greatest offenders in automobile accident fatalities, and jay-walking shows the greatest cause of death and injury, according to a statement issued by Mrs. D. E. F. Easton, general chairman of the California Public Safety conference, an organization functioning under the auspices of the California Development association in the cause of street and highway safety.

Drivers below the ages of 16 and over 60 are the least offenders in records of accidents; the greatest number of accidents occur between 5 and 7 o'clock in the evening, with the level up to 10 o'clock at night remaining higher than any time during the day; the noon hour shows the sharpest rise during daylight—are other facts which Mrs. Easton reveals.

The survey made by the California Public Safety conference is based upon statistics compiled by the Los Angeles police department, the Automobile Club of Southern California and by Coroner Leland's office, San Francisco.

Causes of Accidents

Nine other major causes of accidents noted in order of precedence are:

Crossing street carelessly, confused by traffic, intoxication, incompetent handling, negligence at railway crossing, speed 15-mile zone, right-of-way violated, playing in street, skidding. The so-called experienced driver is also shown to be in the category of the constant offender. Those who have driven three to five years cause most of the accidents, the table showing drivers of less experience and of more experience taking greater care, until the nine-year period is reached, then there is another sudden jump to recklessness and carelessness. Following is the table of the Los Angeles police department:

SHARP CHANGES IN CALIFORNIA MOTOR VEHICLE LAW PROPOSED

Patrol Association Seeks To Deny County Boards Power Over Traffic Men

WOULD TAKE ALL FOR DRIVER'S LICENSES

Annual Fee of $1 with Renewal Requirement Each Year Suggested to Public

Drastic changes in the operation of the state traffic bureau are forecast, if proposed amendments, approved by the California Highway Patrol association, can be introduced in and passed by the legislature.

The most pronounced of these changes would be elimination of the county supervisors in handling any affair of the state traffic officers, and the proposed plan of raising a fund of approximately $1,750,000 to be used in paying the salaries and other expenses of the state police.

The proposed changes would give the chief of the division power to appoint all inspectors and traffic officers without any recommendation from the county supervisors, and all salaries, all equipment and all upkeep on equipment would be paid by the state.

Method of Financing

In order to raise enough money for the salaries and expenses for equipment, it is suggested that a bill be passed creating an annual fee of $1 for an operator's license and making it a violation of the law for any person to operate a motor vehicle in California, without an operator's license in his possession at all times, this license to become delinquent on July 1 of each year.

At the present time, operators of cars do not require new operator's licenses each year. By requiring a new permit every 12 months, a source of revenue would be forthcoming that would bring a gross amount of approximately $1,750,000 into the state coffers, in that there are 1,750,000 drivers in the state.

It also is pointed out that many persons have more than one operator's license, and that there are more than two operator's licenses for every car registered in the state of California.

Compensation for Injured

A new section of the motor vehicle act also is suggested in the plan that was presented to the officers in their recent convention at Sacramento, which was heartily approved by the officers themselves in that it calls for half pay to all officers sick or injured while on duty. At the present time, the officer making $225 a month is allowed only $20 a month compensation for injuries and illness, and this for only a limited time.

The new section also would make it imperative for the state to pay all expenses of an injured officer, including hospital expenses, medical attention, and even crutches

The Long-Lived Packard Six Has Doubled the Fine Car Market

PACKARD has made it possible for more than twice as many people to own really fine cars.

Packard has achieved this remarkable public benefit not by lowering standards and cutting prices but by raising standards—building far finer cars than it has ever been possible to build before—and through engineering improvements making these new and improved cars last twice as long in service.

So Packard owners need face no "used car problem." They are learning that they can themselves use all of the long mileage life Packard sells them—and do it comfortably and enjoyably in cars which never even look out of date, no matter how long they are continued in use.

For Packard has long protected its owners' interests.

No radical changes in appearance are made from year to year. And when, as in recent months, improvements in motor design add greatly improved performance, a large measure of this increased power is made available to recent purchasers at low cost—in this instance by a new head quickly applied to the older motors.

Naturally Packard sales have tremendously increased. The finest cars Packard has ever built are today far lower in first cost, in cost per mile of operation, and in maintenance cost, than any Packard ever was before.

If you really desire Packard ownership but feel you cannot afford so fine a car, come in and see us before buying a compromise. We can prove to you that you can afford to own and drive the car you want.

and artificial limbs, should be need them. The one-half salary would go to the officer for the remainder of his life, if he were permanently injured, it is pointed out.

CHEST FUND IS $8187.64 SHORT OF GOAL FIXED

Attainment of the goal of the Santa Ana and Tustin Community Chest appeal loomed in sight today, when contributions amounting to $783 were reported, swelling the grand total of the chest drive to $35,249.36.

The budget is still $8187.64 short, but if the thousands of unsolicited citizens continue to respond as they have since the campaign was brought to a close, last Wednesday, the objective may be reached within the next two weeks, it was stated at the chest offices.

In this connection, chest offices added, plans are being made to launch an intensive mop-up campaign, to be handled by a select group of public-spirited citizens. Final arrangements for this cleanup drive will be completed at a meeting to be held next Monday, at the chest offices.

Predictions that the cleanup campaign will bring in a sufficient number of subscriptions to reach the chest budget are based on the fact that out of 6000 prospective subscribers, only half of that number, or, to be exact, 2770, contributed to the chest fund. This leaves a balance of 2000 cards, many of them good prospects, to be worked over by the volunteer workers.

A list is now being made of persons who contributed last year to the chest, but for some reason or other have failed to give this year. Many of these have been overlooked by the chest workers, it was explained.

Persons desiring to subscribe to the chest may do so at any of the local banks or at the offices of the Orange County Title and Abstract company.

BETTER MOTOR SERVICE IS AIM OF ASSOCIATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—With 43 legislatures scheduled to meet during 1927 and with every indication that the mill of motor vehicle legislation will work overtime, the American Automobile association announced today that steps are being taken to solidify motorism, east and west, behind policies that will assure progress and prevent unfavorable encroachment on the rights of the users of the roads.

As an initial step in this program for a solid front, the executive committee and several officers of the national body, will make a 10,000-mile tour of the Rocky mountain section and the Pacific coast area. The trip will be made by rail, a special car having been secured to take the leaders of organized motorism from point to point of their extensive itinerary. The group will be in Los Angeles December 10.

One of the main purposes of the trip, which is similar to visits already made into other sections of the country, is to promote standardized motor service as between the east and west through the 850 motor clubs affiliated with the A. A. A. The tremendous increase of motor touring into the far west and into adjacent portions of Canada in recent years, it is pointed out, has accelerated the need for dependable, uniform service at minimum cost for motor tourists.

The tour of the west, A. A. A. headquarters declared, will take up 20 days, starting from Chicago on November 28th and concluding in that city on December 17th.

Most Killings By Motorists Are Avoidable

fic regulations, carelessness by both pedestrian and motorist, and lack of proper ability to drive, while 23.66 per cent, it is thought, can be remedied by law enforcement. The infractions of the law include speeding in 15 and 20-mile zone, violation of right-of-way, driving on wrong side of road, cutting in ahead, cutting corners, passing street cars, passing on wrong side of road and glaring headlights.

"When we find that less than 3 per cent of this great continuing toll of death and accidents is unavoidable," states Mrs. Easton, "we have before us a great work in the name of humanity, which should month by month show concrete results in the saving of life and limb. The installation of the uniform traffic ordinance in all cities of California has been taken by us as a primary step in our campaign. To date some fourteen cities have adopted the uniform traffic regulations which we are advocating.

"We hope in time to see uniformity of traffic regulations spread not only through California, but all states of the West and finally adopted by the nation as a whole."

Great Events in Motor Car History

The 3 or 4 Bearing Crankshaft is now obsolete in Nash engineering practice

Here's something of real importance for every prospective buyer of a SIX to think about—
—if you buy a new car now that still has the old-type crankshaft with only 3 or 4 bearings, what is going to happen to its resale value?

Manufacturers who still cling to the 3 or 4 bearing crankshaft design know just as well as you do that the MODERN crankshaft has 7 bearings.

And certainly with Nash setting the pace they are not likely to hold to the old style of design any longer than they are compelled to under their manufacturing conditions.

The authority of Nash engineering submits to your own good judgment that the motor with a 3 or 4 bearing crankshaft cannot be called a truly modern type of motor.

SEEK DATA ON TRAFFIC PLAN OF CALIFORNIA

California cities' system of handling traffic may be adopted in all parts of the country, according to reports reaching the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. This is indicated by letters making inquiries regarding the uniform traffic ordinance which is being quite generally adopted in Southern California and gradually is coming into use in the cities of northern California.

Standardizing traffic regulations in this section began last January when the Automobile Club of Southern California published a proposed universal traffic ordinance which was based largely on the Los Angeles regulations.

This uniform act, which regulates pedestrian and motor traffic, fundamentally is the same wherever adopted and already has been placed in operation in Glendale, Bakersfield, Anaheim, San Bernardino, Delano, Santa Barbara, San Diego, Colton, Ventura, Calexico and Santa Monica, in Southern California. It is being given consideration by police departments and city councils in Whittier, Oxnard, Long Beach, Inglewood, El Segundo, Hawthorne, Beverly Hills, Pasadena, Tujunga, El Monte, Ramona, Compton and Santa Paula.

In the northern part of the state Santa Clara has adopted the ordinance and San Francisco, Sacramento and Stockton have it under consideration. In that district, the California State Automobile association and the women's division of the California Development association are fostering the uniform law and urge its general adoption.

As the proposed uniform traffic law is working out well in California cities where it has been adopted, it is believed that many cities in other states will follow the lead and that eventually the traffic ordinance originating in California will be known to the motorists of Maine or Florida as well as it is to the natives of California.

imately $15,000,000 available for development work and maintenance. It is pointed out by good roads proponents that this sum, while not spectacular, will permit of a large amount of work and that there will be no reason for the state highway system to stand still while a future program is being evolved.

At the last election, the voters of the state failed to approve either of two state highway measures, but it is believed that the wide discussion of the highway situation stimulated by the campaign will serve to focus attention on any highway legislation that will come before the next legislature. Practically all interests hope for a sound, business-like, economic development and it is believed that a satisfactory plan will be worked out.

STUDEBAKER CARS SHOW NEW TREND IN DESIGN

According to Harry Riley, county distributor, the modern uplift in arts and decorations is strikingly evident in body lines, color combinations and interior fittings of the new line of Studebaker custom cars, models of which are shown above. "All of the power and stamina for which Studebaker cars have long been known is found in these custom sedans," Riley said, and he added that they are powered with the same motor, with added refinements, used in the hundreds of Studebakers in the 100,000-mile club, composed of owners who have driven their cars in excess of 300,000 miles.

EXTRA WHEELS SLIDE CARS TO PARKING SPACE

Thousands of miles of more parking space will be available for motorists by means of an invention by V. P. Williams, of Baltimore, which allows autos to move sideways into a space no longer than the car's length.

An automobile to be known as the New York Six, which will incorporate this invention, is now under construction and is scheduled to make its appearance at the New York automobile show.

The invention consists of four small wheels, built into the car at right angles with the main service wheels. These four wheels are concealed beneath the car when not in use. They can be lowered by the power of the engine to move the car to the right or left.

The four wheels used for parking purposes are eight inches in diameter with solid rubber tires. The wheels are mounted on heavy lifting pillars with strong lateral bracing.

The system operates as a hydraulic jack, which lifts the car from the street three inches in a second. When the car is above the street, the auto engine power is used to drive the wheels. There is no danger of accident, as the main gear of the car must be in neutral before the lift can operate. Using this invention, the motorist can pick a parking space the length of his car and maneuver into it sideways. This affords all available room on a street for parking.

Space can also be saved in public and private garages. A private garage need be nothing more than a diminutive building a few inches longer and wider than the car itself.

The Princeton football squad will be shot to pieces by the graduation next spring, as 12 of the players who took part in the Harvard and Yale game this year will receive their sheepskins next June.

London's latest and most modern building, the new Devonshire house, in Piccadilly, has its central ground floor section constructed as a replica of the tomb of Napoleon, in the Invalides, in Paris.

STUDEBAKER WILL AID COTTON MEN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 27.—With the view of aiding the government in stabilizing business conditions in the south, upset by overproduction of cotton, the Studebaker corporation of America has announced, through its president, A. R. Erskine, that it will buy one bale of cotton for every Studebaker that is sold in the cotton belt during November and December.

The cotton will be purchased at the market price and will be stored and kept off the market for at least six months, according to Erskine's statement.

The Studebaker investment in cotton and in the prosperity of the south will be between $150,000 and $250,000, as Studebaker sales during the next two months in the cotton area are expected to be between 3000 and 5000 cars.

What "Honeyboy" Finnegan would like to know is whether he is a champion or whether he is not. After his defeat of "Chick" Suggs the Massachusetts Boxing commission bestowed the featherweight title on "Honeyboy," but the New York Boxing commission says the Boston battler must perform some more before he is entitled to the crown.

The 1926 football season will be long remembered at Brown university as the year in which the Bruins scored successive victories over Yale, Dartmouth and Harvard.

The Greater OAKLAND SIX ENGINE

Rides on Rubber Drives thru Rubber

"Smoother and quieter than any car I have ever driven"—such is the verdict of owners of the Greater Oakland Six, with Rubber-Silenced Chassis.

A vital reason for its velvety performance is a new and exclusive engineering principle—the Oakland Six engine rides on rubber and drives through rubber.

Rubber engine supports absorb any vibration in the frame due to torque reaction of the engine, while a rubber-silenced drive erases all body rumbles and vibrations from the rear wheels, drive shaft and transmission.

Drive the Greater Oakland Six—and experience a smoothness and quietness of operation never before achieved.

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. Pontiac Six, companion to Oakland Six, $825 to $895. Bodies by Fisher. All prices at factory. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

ARMY, NAVY IN ANNUAL GRIDIRON CLASSIC

He couldn't hit a ball as far as Babe Ruth. He couldn't go back or come in to snare a fly with the grace of George Burns or Tris Speaker and he couldn't throw with the machine gun speed and accuracy of Bob Meusel.

But he could do more things better than any other ball player and he retired as the greatest ball player of all time.

In twenty years Ty Cobb made records that may stand for all time. In fifty years of major league baseball there was only one Ty Cobb and it is not logical to figure that the next fifty years will produce another.

It is not likely that Cobb's records ever will be approached because Cobb played record baseball for twenty years at top speed and in the most brilliant form and the men who are playing now and the boys who are coming up aren't endowed with the constitution or the will to live and train that enabled that Georgia Peach to star for two decades of the hardest kind of campaigning.

Game's Greatest Star

Cobb was the greatest player of all time but he was perhaps one of the poorest managers, a manager so discouraged because he could get no place with a good ball team that he decided to step out and let some one else have a chance.

The great Ty never could be a great manager because he didn't know how to lose. As a player he couldn't reconcile himself to be a loser and until advancing years began to temper the fire of impetuosity and to file the tip of a venomous tongue he was in one continuous brawl with players and spectators.

It is not in place in a valedictory to record the fights he had or to weigh faults against virtues but it was a matter of fact and record that Cobb was perhaps the most generally disliked man among the other players and at the same time one of the most respected.

Men in the same profession couldn't help but admire the heart that he had in his game and the drive that he put in it even if he had to tear flesh and break bones to prove it.

For the same reason that Cobb was a great player he failed as a manager. He judged his players' game by his own. He reasoned that if he could do it a player could and if the player didn't he had no patience with him.

He was so fiery and hot headed that he couldn't hold his temper until he reached the clubhouse and he humiliated his men with the most bitter criticism on the field in the presence of all the fans.

Demoralized Team

He totally demoralized the Detroit team, ruined several good young ball players and created chaos instead of morale.

Cobb's name will go down as a name never to be forgotten and this record never will be surpassed.

GEORGE GUTTORMSEN

Washington has been minus the services of the sensational George Wilson on the football field this fall, but in another George-Guttormsen-it has a fellow only a step or so behind the great 1925 star. Guttormsen is captain and quarterback of this season's team, a heady field general and a regular Paddock in gridiron togs. When the boys down front start dishing out their All-American aggregations this chap Guttormsen is certain to come in for much consideration.

Students Rally Around Bonfire Despite Storm

Rain prevented the Santa Ana high school students from holding their prep rally for the "big game" today with San Diego but it didn't dampen their spirits concerning the outcome of the clash on the Poly gridiron.

They were set on winning from the Border city eleven.

The students, although they didn't hold their serpentine through Santa Ana, lighted the bonfire that they had prepared on the Poly athletic field and watched it burn during the rain. "Chuck" Homan, Poly student, was in charge of the bonfire.

TROJANS LEND S. A. GRIDDERS SHOES FOR MUD

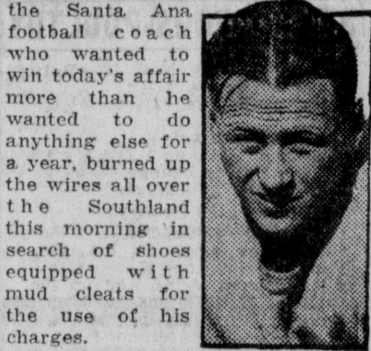

"Jeff" Cravath, captain of the University of Southern California football team, came to the rescue of Santa Ana high school, his alma mater, in her hour of need today.

Already handicapped by reason of injuries, inexperience and lack of weight, the Santa Ana football squad was placed at a further disadvantage for its clash game at Poly field today with San Diego when more than an inch of rain fell here last night, drenching Poly field until it was almost beyond recognition.

Santa Ana, depending entirely on light backs and a fast, deceptive running attack, could hardly be expected to show much on a slippery, sloppy turf.

Santa Ana, accustomed to fair weather and dry fields, was not equipped in any way for a great mud battle as this afternoon's conflict with the heavy San Diego machine promised to be.

Enter Mr. Cravath.

CRAVATH

the Santa Ana football coach who wanted to win today's affair more than he wanted to do anything else for a year, burned up the wires all over the Southland this morning in search of shoes equipped with mud cleats for the use of his charges.

Would Mr. Cravath, roused from peaceful slumber in his fraternity house, come to the aid of his old school? Would he? no foolin'.

The Trojan captain, unanimous selection for all-coast center, rushed to the training quarters, ordering out of stock the very long-cleated shoes that the U. S. C. varsity has worn whenever it has played on fields in the northwest similar to the ones here.

So Santa Ana, wearing the brogans of Jeff Cravath, Morley Drury, Don Williams, Jesse Hibbs, Morton Kaer and other Trojan notables, went into battle with San Diego adequately equipped to cope with the heavy field.

Both the Santa Ana-San Diego contest here and the Fullerton-Huntington Beach turmoil at Fullerton, the latter one of the playoff matches for the Orange County league championship, were to be played this afternoon-rain or shine-it was announced at noon.

Larry Murphy Is Hollywood Victor

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.-Larry Murphy won a 10-round decision over Sailor Reed in the main event at the Hollywood Legion stadium. Murphy and Reed originally were carded for the semi-windup but were promoted when Doc Snell appeared overweight for his bout with Jimmy Piel.

The matchmaker called off the bout and moved up the prelims.

Eddie Diggins technically knocked out Harvey Perry in the fourth round of a scheduled six rounder, that was put on as an extra event.

IOWA CYCLONES BATTLE BRANCH TEAM IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.-Iowa State was favored to win from University of California, Southern Branch, in their intersectional clash at the Coliseum here this afternoon.

Iowa State's edge hinged on their victories over the Kansas Aggies and Drake while the Bruins were taking the count from Whittier and Caltech.

The Cyclones have been meeting strong competition all season and their victory last Saturday over the Kansas Aggies stamps them as one of the best teams in the Missouri Valley conference.

Coach Noel Workman, former Ohio State luminary, brought his team here by degrees. Immediately after the Aggie game the Cyclones entrained for El Paso where they practiced Monday. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday they went through a brief blundering session at the Coliseum.

Workman's men are all in first class physical condition. Walt Weiss, 135-pound quarterback, will start in his regular position. Captain Coe, end, is rated as one of the best in the Missouri conference.

The Bruin line-up, with the exception of Stanley at guard, was to be intact. Stanley was to start in Wenzel's position at guard.

POLY MAY HAVE SECOND TURF FIELD FOR FOOTBALL TEAMS

Another turf field will be ready for the cleats of Santa Ana high school and junior college football players next fall if plans, disclosed today by Principal D. K. Hammond, are approved by the board of education.

The proposed plan calls for the planting of the auxiliary field east of Andrews gymnasium to turf. The field, already laid out, is of regulation size.

All that remains to make the field a reality is to obtain the finances from the board of education for installing a watering system and buying the seed with which to plant the field, Hammond stated. The fact that the field will not require grading will eliminate a big item of expense that had to be reckoned with when the present turf was planted.

Santa Ana now has the only turf field in Orange county, and Poly will be the only high school in Southern California with two grass gridirons, it is believed.

In case the plans are accepted, the field will be planted to Bermuda grass in the spring. Prolonged watering the field will be laid at the same time. The field will then be ready for use by the time the fall football season opens.

ST. MARY'S IS 3-1 FAVORITE OVER BRONCOS

By JOHN McDONALD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.-Two "fighting Irish" teams, St. Mary's and Santa Clara colleges, both exponents of the Rockne shift and fast about it, were to meet here this afternoon in Central California's "little big game," a traditional affair, and traditionally hard fought.

Clearing skies early today gave hope that the contest might be staged in sunshine. Coaches "Sly" Madigan, St. Mary's, and Adam Walsh, Santa Clara, both former Notre Dame stars under Knute Rockne. Both coaches have light, fast teams and throughout the season have relied on quick shifts and deception rather than power plays necessary for a heavy field.

The condition of the field was a disappointment to coaches "Sly" Madigan, St. Mary's, and Adam Walsh, Santa Clara, both former Notre Dame stars under Knute Rockne. Both coaches have light, fast teams and throughout the season have relied on quick shifts and deception rather than power plays necessary for a heavy field.

KAER ON N. Y. SUN ALL-AMERICA TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.-The New York Sun today announced its All-American football team. Six westerners and five easterners are given places on the team. The Sun's backfield is essentially all western; not an easterner won recognition on the first string backfield.

The teams follow:
First team-Broda, Brown, LE; Wickhorst, Navy, LT; Schmidt, Army, LG; Boerenger, Notre Dame, C; Connaughton, Georgetown, RF; Nelson, Iowa, RT; Hanson, Syracuse, RE; Friedman, Michigan, QB; Baker, Northwestern, LH; Kaer, U. S. C., RH; Joesting, Minnesota, F.

110,000 FANS ASSEMBLE FOR CHICAGO GAME

Thermometer Near 22 Mark But Snowfall Abates As Record Crowd on Hand

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.-A northwestern gale that sent the thermometer down around the 22 degree mark today promised a cold afternoon for the 110,000 people who will witness the Army-Navy game.

The snowfall which began yesterday has abated.

The weather department today predicted a further cold wave for the entire middle west with an ample supply of snow.

The sudden change to cold weather was a blow to the football fans who early in the week were promised a cloudy warm afternoon for the game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.-Ready to battle for the only national football title that is beyond dispute, the Army and Navy mobilized their forces here today for one of the most widely heralded games in history.

There is no such thing as a national championship, such as the baseball pros play for in the world's series. Alabama has a great team. Notre Dame has a great team. Southern California and Stanford have great teams and there are other great teams all over the United States.

But the Army and the Navy are the only service teams and the winner is the champion and the holder of a title that cannot be disputed.

There will be more than 100,000 spectators in the municipal stadium and that will put football ahead of big baseball on the records and close to Tex Rickard's biggest fight houses.

The official receipts will be at least $750,000 and the unofficial receipts, figuring what the scalpers will have been getting for tickets, will be more than a million and a half dollars. This year the Army and the Navy have great teams-the Navy undefeated in the east and the Army beaten only by a great Notre Dame team.

The weather was none too good-the Army-Navy games never have been famous for good weather.

Army was the popular favorite in the betting.

No lineups were announced this morning but it is probable that the teams will start as follows:

HammackLG	Cross
DalyC	Alchell

RAIN MAY HALT ALL HARBOR LOOP GAMES

Probability that some, and possibly all, of the baseball contests scheduled to be played in the Orange County Harbor league tomorrow afternoon would be postponed, loomed today, following last night's heavy rainfall and promise of additional showers this afternoon.

The league-leading Republic Supply company is scheduled to play Orange at Huntington Beach; the Union Oil company is supposed to meet the Laguna Beach Lumber company at Laguna Beach and the Tiernans of Santa Ana are slated to play Westminster at Midway City.

None of the games had been officially postponed late today but further rain undoubtedly will leave the diamonds too wet for competition. League standings follow:

Orange County Harbor League	W	L	Pct.
Republic Supply Co.	4	0	1.000
Laguna Beach	2	1	.667
Tieman Typewriter Co.	2	2	.500
Union Oil Co.	2	2	.500
Orange Merchants	1	2	.333
Westminster	0	3	.000

Anna Nilsson and Huntly Gordon in "Her Second Chance," film closing at the Yost theater tonight.

WEST COAST-WALKER

A week of theatrical triumphs is in line for Santa Ana, beginning Sunday, December 12, when the war comedy, "Tin Hats," opens at the West Coast-Walker theater. Conrad Nagel and Claire Windsor hold the stellar roles and are said to eclipse their former records as a laugh-producing team. "Tin Hats" is now playing at Lowe's State theater in Los Angeles.

The second half of the week, beginning December 15, will bring "The Winning of Barbara Worth," the sensational romance of the West, featuring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky. "The Winning of Barbara Worth" is the picture-ization of Harold Bell Wright's book success of the same name, and has just finished an engagement at the Forum theater, Los Angeles.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

College life and all it implies, interestingly told, with a tremendous amount of suspense is embodied in "College Days," which closes at the Yost theater tonight. From the amount of excitement manifested by the audience yesterday during the gripping football game, there is no doubt in the reviewer's mind that the consensus of opinion voted this entertaining.

The story in brief tells of a breezy young college boy, who comes to one of the big universities and soon makes himself known to all the pretty co-eds, until he meets the one. Many little kinks come to mar their love-making which is finally unravelled by his brilliant playing on the college varsity football team, in which he helps win the game for his alma mater and at the same time the girl.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

The "Humbug," a comedy in three acts, which has been playing this week at Murphy's theater at Orana, closes with tonight's performance to make way for one of the greatest farce comedy successes of the year, "Scrambled Wives," which opens tomorrow night.

"Scrambled Wives" comes recommended as being simply full of laughs. It is written in three acts and requires two complete changes of scenery to suit the action of the play. The cast is larger than usual and brings back some of the favorites with Orana audiences who have not appeared in some of the recent offerings at the play-house.

WEST COAST-WALKER

A pyramid forty feet high forms the background for Fanchon and Marco's marvelous stage presentation opening tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater. "The Pyramids" idea is a gorgeous spectacle of color and music and is the show that took Los Angeles off its feet.

Blaze Los Angeles, accustomed to openings and first nights—brilliant throngs of world-renowned celebrities—unanimously voted the production as one of the most pre-tentious ever seen in Southern California.

The original cast, numbering 88, appeared in the presentation, with its dazzling costumes; its pageant of beautiful girls; and its musical score, a blending and contrasting of old Egyptian melodies and modern syncopated and concert numbers.

On the screen will be "Millionaires," a riotous comedy-drama featuring George Sidney, Louise Fazenda and Vera Gordon. The story is a free adaptation of E. Phillips Oppenheim's book, "The Inevitable Millionaire." It tells of a Jewish tailor who suddenly makes a fortune in stocks and finds himself in for golf, horses, divorces and other uncomfortable luxuries.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Many photoplays have passed in a parade on the screen of the Yost Broadway theater, but it remains for "The Prince of Tempters" to introduce what possibly is the finest aggregation of talent ever brought to that theater in one screen production. The picture opens tomorrow at the Yost Broadway.

At the head of the featured cast is Ben Lyon, who appeared not so long ago with Eileen Pringle in "The Wilderness Woman," and as the titular player in "Bluebeard's Seven Wives."

Another of the very excellent players is the exotic Lya de Putti. Lya de Putti was something of a sensation in "Variety," by which she was introduced to American audiences. She comes from Germany, but her art belongs to the world.

Lois Moran, who shared a big part of the honors that went to the cast of "Stella Dallas," and Mary Brian, who has scored many hits since her screen debut as Wendy in "Peter Pan," are two other young players who are fast reaching the altitude which distinguishes star from featured player.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Lovers of good comedy—and who does not appreciate a rollicking laugh once in a while?—will have their last opportunity to see the version of the New York stage success, "Kosher Kitty Kelly," today at tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater. The picture gives a delightful insight into the life of Gotham's East Side, and is replete with screamingly funny situations, which have been cleverly built up by the director, James Horne, who has wielded the megaphone on many of the best comedy hits of recent years.

Viola Dana gives a thoroughly lovable characterization of the little Irish girl in the title role, and is ably supported by Tom Forman, who is convincing and admirable as the warm-hearted Irish policeman. Such splendid players as Nat Carr, Vera Gordon, Aggie Herring, Carroll Nye, Kathleen Myers and Stanley Taylor, gave vividness and strength to the cast.

On the stage is a Fanchon and Marco vaudeville show featuring several well known artists, namely Parvis and Lillian Crowell, George Warde, Enrico Martinelli, Martin and Layton, with Way Watts and his band.

YOST THEATER

Two stirring incidents occur in "Her Second Chance," which closes at the Yost theater tonight. One is a horse race and the second is an indoor bathing party. Either one of them would have made the picture an outstanding attraction.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the lead.

Alma Davis, now appearing in vaudeville at the Yost Broadway theater.

ing feminine role in the picture an outstanding attraction.

Anna Q. Nilsson plays the leading feminine role in the picture, with Huntly Gordon playing opposite her. Charlie Murray is cast in a comedy role.

The racing scene is a depiction of the famous Kentucky derby and is done with striking realism. This reviewer learned yesterday that the favorites in the race were two of the speediest examples of horse-flesh in California.

YOST THEATER

In offering "Twin Beds" at the Yost theater Sunday and Monday, Melkiejohn & Dunn's Broadway Players are effecting a theatrical bargain which is out of the ordinary to say the least. This is the first production of this famous comedy since the New York company presented it at the Mason Opera house in Los Angeles.

"Twin Beds" is the wholesomest of farces and the most continuously amusing of all plays of its kind and has earned its unprecedented popularity by the virtue of its deft characterization and the familiar situations which usually rise in a crowded apartment house.

The Belasco company of the Broadway Players are cast in this production perfectly and all the favorites have parts that give them equal chances as comedians and artists. Included in the cast are Mary Fisher, Arthur Lovejoy, May Clare, Robert Stone, Arthur Belasco and others.

"The Pace that Kills," a film featuring Ben Lyon, Mary Astor, Tully Marshall, Wheeler Oakman and others in the Yost theater's screen offering Sunday and Monday.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Roger Williams

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

Having chosen Providence as the site of his home, Williams bought the land from the Indians with money and gifts. He had mortgaged his house in Salem to make the purchase. A steadfast friendship sprang up between Williams and the Narragansett sachems, notably Canonicus.

In the summer of 1636 Mrs. Williams and her two small children reached Providence and the future brightened for her husband.

A government compact was drawn up by the settlers by which church and state were separated. Men could worship here as they pleased.

The new settlement still was an infant when danger of an Indian outbreak threatened all New England. The powerful Pequot tribe had been suspected of the murder of several traders, and a force sent to bring the natives to terms burned the Indians' wigwams and destroyed crops. (Continued.)

THE TINYMITES
BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"At last with just one apple more that must be hoisted from the floor," wee Clowny said. "Oh, let me pull this last one to the chute. Just how it's done I understand." And then he took the string in hand and started pulling slow, but sure, to hoist the shiny fruit.

"Bout half way up the long string broke. Now please don't laugh. It was no joke. The apple fell directly toward the place where Clowny stood. The other Tinsies dashed about, and loudly shouted, 'Hey! Look out!' And Clowny tried to dodge it just as quickly as he could.

But 'twas no use. Alas, smack, the falling apple grazed his back. It seemed that all the rest could do was simply stand and stare. 'Course Clowny flopped upon the floor. I guess that he was hurt much more than they all thought. Then Scouty said, 'Stand back, and give him air.'

Now, Clowny, was near scared to death. At least, he couldn't catch his breath. "My goodness, he has fainted. Get some water," Scouty cried. 'Course Scouty knew just what to do. He was a Boy Scout, tried and true. When someone brought the water, he knelt down by Clowny's side.

It wasn't long 'till several sips had passed between poor Clowny's lips. The water quite refreshed him, and he opened up his eyes. "Where am I? Goodness me, oh, my, I thought I was going to die. The apple that just fell on me was several times my size."

The Tinsies all felt real glad to find he wasn't hurt so bad. As Clowny rose, he calmly said, "That's where my hoisting ceases." But, shucks, the hoisting job was through, and now there was no more to do. The apple that had fallen down was squashed to little pieces.

Queer Quirks of
- NATURE -

THE STORY THREE PAIRS OF FEET TELL

By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

Here are three rather distinct types of bird feet.

The crow's foot first of all is a perching foot. Three toes in front well-clawed are opposed by a fourth equally well-fashioned. A bird with such a foot may not only sit in comfort on a limb, but he may jump from branch to branch, grasping with sure grip his successive perches.

Foot That Saunters

He can, moreover, use them effectively on the ground, sauntering here and there in search of cutworm, or beetle, or even on occasion, on the newly-planted corn. In this particular type of foot it will be noted that the two outer toes are joined together for a part of their length.

A sharp eye may note this peculiarity in the print left by the birds in newly fallen snow, and by this alone may name the walker.

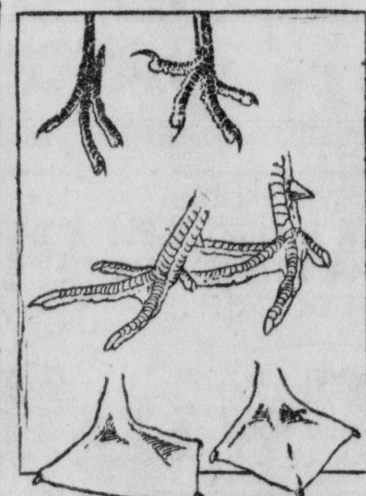

The pheasant's foot is typical of the gallinaceous bird, a walker of the highest order of skill.

Were it not that their owner had to fly occasionally to escape a swift-winged hawk, or to reach a roosting branch out of reach of prowling fox, it would be independent of wings, so well do those serviceable feet, backed by a pair of strong legs, carry their owner about his daily round of food-getting.

The strong claws are efficient instruments for scratching for food hidden in the mould. Such a pair of feet will seldom leave prints beside each other. They are used mainly for running or walking, rather than hopping. The hind toe, used only as a prop, is relatively insignificant; the spur is often present.

Strong Claws

A glance at the membrane between the bases of the toes of the gull's foot will show how, in all probability, the webbed foot has been evolved. This is nearly or quite the highest type of swimming foot.

Opposed to the water, the feet spread to their fullest extent; when drawn forward, they fold and offer little resistance. Both this type of foot and that carried by the pheasant admit of perching on limb or rock, but their owners attempt liberties when so engaged.

LATEST FOR SPORT

For sport wear, nothing is smarter than the tweed coat lined with some such fur as nutria, squirrel, or one of the new short haired pelts.

TO MATCH HER HAT

With the sweater costume, the very up-to-date miss wears a leather belt, narrow or wide, according to taste, that just exactly matches the shade of her hat.

PAINTED PAJAMAS

An unusually lovely suit of pajamas is made of old blue silk and painted with roses in many shades of red and pink.

BEAUTY CHATS
BY EDNA KENT FORBES

HASTY TREATMENTS

If you know exactly how to give yourself beauty treatments, and the best time to do so, you'll save hours every week. Lots of women, successful business women or very busy housewives, write to me and say they haven't the actual number of minutes each day to spend making themselves as nice looking as they'd like to be.

Well, here are a few time-saving suggestions:

You use cold cream, of course. Well, whether you use a flesh building cream for a thin or wrinkled face, or an astringent for an oily face or for relaxed muscles, you know it takes time to rub it on and let it stay long enough to do the skin good. Don't waste that time—cover the face with the cream as you get ready for your bath, let it stay on while you bathe, and at the very end, wring your face cloth from the warm water and wipe off the cream. The heat and steam of the bathroom, and the extra warmth of your body from the bath water will open the pores and allow the face to take up the cream more quickly than it would in the mild heat of your dressing room. You've had a face treatment you see, without losing an extra minute. And if the cream is spread over the neck and chin as well, it does that much more good.

That is one treatment. Here is another. When you do housework, or, if you are a business woman, when you do those odd household jobs every woman has to attend to, slip on a pair of very loose, fairly thick rubber gloves. If you wear a six size ordinarily, buy eight in rubber. They ought to be about two sizes too large, that is. First cover your hands with cream, or some good hand lotion, and slip on the gloves, and let this soak in while you do other things.

M. E.—Massage calves of the legs to reduce them. If you are overweight, a general reduction by dieting will be the best thing for you.

Annabelle.—Pilocarpine in a hair tonic formula will always be combined with other ingredients, all of which would be needed in some way to make a perfect combination for the scalp.

If you used alcohol full strength on your scalp three times a week for months at a time, you would injure your hair, yet some alcohol is needed in most hair tonic formulas to make them perfect.

Miss H. B.—Sulphur tablets are a convenient form of taking sulphur, but do not take this or any other blood purifier except when it is needed, as it will thin out the blood if overdone. Late spring or early in the summer some people need this treatment, but not at this season of the year.

MENUS for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, soft cooked eggs, crisp bran toast, milk, coffee.

DINNER—Red snapper with tomato sauce, boiled macaroni, buttered Brussels sprouts, rolled oats, bread, lemon jelly with fresh fruit and whipped cream, milk, coffee.

With the exception of the fish sauce, which may be a bit too rich for small children, there are no dishes mentioned that cannot be served to all members of the average family. No special dishes need be prepared as substitutes because a wholesome varied diet is suggested.

The recipe for the dinner fish follows as it is rather out-of-the-ordinary but simple and good.

Red snapper with Tomato Sauce

Two pounds red snapper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup canned strained tomato, 2 small onions, 1 carrot, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon minced celery, 1 cup cream, 1 tablespoon flour.

Have fish cleaned and boned at market. Wipe with a damp cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Let stand on ice for two or three hours. Peel and slice onions and scrape and slice carrot. Put prepared onions, carrot, parsley and celery into a kettle with 4 cups cold water. Bring to the boiling point and add butter and tomatoes. When mixture boils again, add fish and heat to the boiling point but do not let boil. Simmer just below the boiling point until fish is firm. It will take about twenty minutes. Remove carefully from kettle to hot platter. Strain stock and reheat. Stir flour to a smooth paste with a little of the cream, add remaining cream and stir into hot stock. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly and cook until thick and smooth. Pour over fish and serve.

An extra tablespoon of butter can be used and milk substituted for cream.

DEMURRER OF PAIR CHARGED WITH STARTING FIRE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT BY COURT

Taking a demurrer of the defense under advisement, with a ruling promised for next Monday, Justice Kenneth E. Morrison late yesterday set the trial of Fred C. Hathaway and his son, Neil, for January 11, in connection with charges growing out of the recent Santiago canyon forest fire.

Action of the court in setting the trial date before handing down a ruling on the demurrer indicated that at least one of the three counts against the Hathaways would be sustained.

Defense attorneys professed confidence today that two of the counts either will be quashed by the court or dismissed by the jury that hears the trial, while they expect that the Hathaways will be acquitted, also, on the remaining count.

Says Time Incorrect
Attorney Stanley Reinhaus, presenting argument on the demurrer yesterday, contended that inasmuch as the fire was started on October 31, as charged in the complaint, no public offense was stated under the count that refers to the starting of a fire "between May 15 and October 31." The word "between," Reinhaus argued, means that October is not included in the provisions of the statute under which the offense is charged. According to Reinhaus' theory, the defendants missed commission of the offense by a matter of about 10 hours.

Another of the counts charges the Hathaways with causing a fire to start in a national forest. The defense will contend that Hathaway's cabin, where the fire started, is not within the Cleveland National forest, into which the fire subsequently spread.

The first count of the complaint charges the defendants with allowing a fire to escape in forest or brush covered land.

"In charging a defendant with allowing a fire to escape," said Reinhaus, "it must be first admitted that the fire was a legal fire. By so admitting, the prosecution will be out of court."

Disputes Defense Contention
Deputy District Attorney Kenneth H. Burns, who opposed the demurrer, disputed the defense contention regarding the inclusion of the date October 31 within the meaning of the statute. He told the court that whether the date is included depends upon the intention of the legislature, to be gained from studying the notes and history of the statute.

Justice Morrison intimated that he would require the prosecution to amend the second count, to show more clearly where the Hathaways were alleged to have thrown "live" ashes, which are blamed for the origin of the fire. The amendment then would provide basis for proof as to whether the fire was started inside or outside of the national forest.

I. A. MYERS SUGGESTS SAVE MONEY BY FIRING A LOT OF EMPLOYEES

Editor Register: I read your article in Wednesday's issue under the title, "What Do They Suggest?" I signed the protest and am a taxpayer. If the wonderful and wise council of which you speak has the interest of the taxpayers at heart, and wish to keep all bills paid, why does it not adopt business ideas just as a corporation does? Cut out useless officers and expenditures, of which they have plenty to work on. First, the water department. On paper it looks big. In common sense it is simple. At present it has enough officers and men to run two such plants. Instead of raising Walter Wray's salary and buying him a fine car to sport around in at our expense they should abolish his office, fire him and get one good man to fill the office of engineer at the plant and he could, with the commissioner, handle all business. They could, by using good judgment, drop from the department a lot of help and have plenty left to man the fire department.

We do not need so large a force of help in the water office at the city hall. In other words, can the whole bunch at the city hall water department offices and get some one that's willing to work at the salary that the rest of us have to take if we are lucky enough to get work at all. Sure we could not get it without the pull of one of the wise councilmen. Being a taxpayer and living in Santa Ana, does not entitle you to a job there if there is a vacancy. Please note how many outside people work at the plant or department and just how many are bona fide property owners. (No axe to grind—I have a job.)

The writer does not attend the council meeting, it is true. I would be mad all the time. I get enough out of the paper about what the council did.

What about that wonderful planning expert? Who put that big idea in the wise councilmen's heads that we need some smart Aleck to tell us where and what to build? Some more of the real estate sharks' ideas—something to spend our money on.

Why should our water department pay its own keep? What becomes of all the $1.25 and extra charges, and they are good at that? Saving it to put Walter Wray on a pension when he smokes himself out?

Who was superintendent when the sewer got in our water supply? And they raise his salary, and buy him a car! Bosh! Who wanted to pump our water to Olive and let it run back? Better buy him a hammock and a pipe, put him on a boat and send him to the South Sea islands, and let him pipe-dream to his heart's content.

We have, in my opinion, a most wonderful chief of police. I believe if he had the full say we would have an excellent force at a nominal salary. I suppose he must be dictated to by some one of those wise councilmen and a bunch of red tape to run before he gets any one on that he would put on for efficiency only. I haven't much to say against the force except they should not put in all their time at Fourth and Main streets.

Our fire department has a fine personnel and should be given encouragement.

I know I am not a fancy writer but I am one of the 800 protesters. If they will all give their bit maybe we can convince the city fathers that if they wish to run things that they must at least give us a chance to say yes or no to some things.

We cannot pay bills unless there is some way made to pay them first. Why raise salaries and spend money for things we could do without? Just to please some real estate bunch?

It's all right to have a chamber of commerce but the council should know when to say NO on its suggestions.

I. A. MYERS, 709 W. First St.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

H. B. OUTPOST WDCAT WELL IS ABANDONED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 27.—The Standard Oil company has definitely abandoned work on its Bolsa No. 28 well, the northwest corner of the old Huntington Beach field. It was reported by officials of the company yesterday. This is one of the deepest wells to be drilled in the Huntington Beach district, bottom being at 6753 feet. No important showings were found, it is said, although a few streaks of oil sand were picked up at widely separated intervals. Geologists calculate that the well is definitely on the Huntington Beach structure.

The abandonment of the Bolsa No. 28 is of much interest to owners of property farther to the northwest in the district which the General Petroleum corporation is testing in its Lomita No. 1 well. This well, which is located on property turned over to the General Petroleum by the Marland Oil company, is intended to test the theory that another structure occurs between Huntington Beach and Seal Beach. The failure of the Bolsa No. 28 to get important showings is interpreted as bearing out the theory to some extent.

ORANGE NUT CROP EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

ORANGE, Nov. 27.—Growers of walnuts in the Orange district will be agreeably surprised to learn that nearly two thirds of the crop harvested this year from the local plant of the Richmond Walnut association graded in the Diamond class, according to A. D. Smiley, manager.

Expectations voiced by officials of the plant before the crop was harvested placed the percentage of Diamond nuts at one third of the pack. Diamond nuts are bringing from three to seven cents per pound more than the Emerald grade, Smiley says. Prices quoted are 23 and 32 cents per pound for Diamonds and 25 and 29 cents per pound for the Emeralds.

One hundred and sixty-five tons of nuts were run through the plant Smiley stated. Predictions of 120 tons for the season were therefore, bettered.

The local plant used two branding machines, costing $600 each, this season. Each machine marks 40 sacks per hour. One other machine was installed in the plant, but was not used. The branding process is past the experimental stage and is an assured success, according to Smiley.

By December 1, all nuts packed in the local plant will have been shipped and the plant closed until next season. Predictions of a banner year next season are being made by walnut growers and officials. The recent rains and those expected will make for exceptionally good crops, they say.

EVENING SALUTATION

JEDEDIAH SMITH

The name of Jedediah Smith has been awakened to fame. His explorations counted for much at the time they were made, but after years enveloped the value of his work in obscurity. Within the past decade, historians have called attention to the real service to western development rendered by Smith, with the result that all over California historical societies and newspapers are paying their respects to this fearless man.

It was just a century ago today that Jedediah Smith reached the Franciscan mission at San Gabriel. Following his business as fur trader, Smith and his companions made their way from the Great Salt Lake through mountains and across desert until he had fathomed a route into what we now call Southern California. Later he crossed the Sierras in the upper end of the state, and made known to the world a route that afterward was used by thousands of Forty-niners and others who came after them.

Much of the fame that should have gone to Jedediah Smith went to General Fremont, known as the Pathfinder. Without detracting in the slightest from Fremont's historical and patriotic service, it is only just to the memory of Jedediah Smith that it be pointed out that Fremont's political position nationally and the powerful influences, led by Senator Benton, a relative, centered California exploration fame upon him. It has always been rather a habit of the American people to concentrate their admiration and affection upon one hero when perhaps many others of equal worth are neglected. In later years, perhaps, close students of history bring to light and attention the high value of the services of some of the neglected heroes, at which time a true appraisal is rendered and due credit given. In that regard we might call attention to the situation that prevailed in relation to Father Junipero Serra, whose good fortune it was, so far as fame is concerned, to have a biographer in Father Crespi at his side. For nearly a century, even historians failed to point out that there was at least one other padre whose life work in the development of the missions was of such consequence that it could be mentioned in the same breath with that of Father Serra. Father Serra had the enthusiasm that pioneered the missions; Father Lasuen was the great administrator.

In celebrating the hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Jedediah Smith there is no disposition on the part of historians to take one whit from the stories of other explorers of the southwest, not an iota of their fame, all earned and won. There is an opportunity, however, throughout California this year to give to Jedediah Smith the belated fame that he earned but not hitherto given to him.

What a change has taken place in the century since Smith, worn and ragged, reached the Mission San Gabriel.

The fearless fur traders of the west did not know that they were opening up a wonderland. They could not see that they were the advance scouts of that great movement in which the star of empire westward takes its way. However, that in no way detracts from their service in that movement.

COAL AND COTTON

"Buy a spool of cotton," the South used to plead when there was a surplus production. That helped a little.

"Buy a cotton mattress," a Texas grower suggests now. This would help more. Yet it is hardly the ultimate solution, because it is only temporary. The more mattresses people buy now, the fewer they will buy a year from now. People can sleep on only one mattress at a time. What is needed is a permanent solution for the problem of utilizing big cotton crops.

Look at what scientists are doing with coal. The coal used to be "only good to burn," but none too good at that, the way they burned it. Now they are making gas, gasoline, lubricating oil, grease and a thousand other valuable things out of it. Thus coal is coming to be the most important of all products, and the most valuable. And the coal industry, traditionally depressed and hopeless, begins to look forward to a permanent boom, with a vast and steadily growing market caused by the creation of new coal products.

The same thing, in less degree, can unquestionably be done with cotton. It is a basic raw material with hundreds of uses, many now known but not applied, many awaiting discovery. Cotton growers could well afford to support laboratories and scientists devoting all their time to creating new uses for cotton and making them known to the public. Congress could well support such research. The demand for cotton would then expand as a matter of course.

WHEN LABOR FAILS LABOR

The great British coal strike is over. The miners are going back to work at less pay and longer hours. They have lost the strike after seven months' fighting. It is a major labor disaster.

Why did those miners lose? It is not a complete answer to say, as many are saying, "because their employers had greater resources and influence." The government, too, failed to stand by the miners as they expected, but that does not tell the story. Why were the mine owners able to maintain their position, and why did the government virtually side with them instead of with the miners?

Evidently because the union workmen in the mines were not supported by the union workmen in other industries.

The labor bond broke. Class consciousness and class interest failed to stand the strain, because the workers in transportation, steel and other industries found that the coal strike crippled their own industries and threw them out of work, so that they could not help the miners if they wanted to.

So the miners' strike failed for much the same reason that the general strike called in their behalf failed. It meant general suicide for British industry. It meant general starvation for British workmen, who are the largest social class and nearest to the edge of want.

Never was there a better example of the fact that a big labor strike is a strike against labor no less than against capital. Labor, which can endure such a war less than capital, should be even more zealous than capital in seeking ways to avoid such disastrous struggles.

State Tax Needs

Oakland Tribune

It was fifteen years ago when sources of revenue in California were separated for purposes of taxation. Rail, boat, power, express, insurance companies and banks were selected as the source of state revenue and the special tax levied against them was in lieu of all other taxes.

Now, with a trial of fifteen years, sufficient time has elapsed to arrive at definite conclusions regarding the actual operation of this method of taxation. Before the National Tax Conference in Philadelphia a week ago, State Controller Ray L. Riley spoke of his reactions and those of other students in the field.

"Constantly increasing financial requirements of Government have served to develop the weaknesses that are inherent in the separation of sources of revenue," he said. "The proponents of this plan claimed that real estate would obtain tax relief. Our experience does not justify such a conclusion. Within one year after the adoption of the new plan, county rates were as high, or higher, than before separation. It has afforded an opportunity to advance rates without protest from taxpayers, who were not aware of the true situation."

When we would increase state revenue from taxation we must increase the rates paid by utility corporations which means there must be an increase in the charges which they ask of the public. In 1921, when the famous King Tax Bill fight was waged, the rate was raised from 4 per cent of the gross receipts to 7 per cent and during the same period, from 1910 to 1921, there was an increase of 156 per cent on the taxation of real property, and one of 307 per cent on franchisees. According to the Controller, "It seems inevitable that there will be constant friction between the people and the corporations, until there is a method devised that will definitely equalize the burden of taxation as between these two classes of taxpayers. It has encouraged unwise State expenditures and will continue to do so until corporation rates reach a point where additional revenues cannot be secured through a raise in rates."

A case in point is that of the county which happens to have a considerable railroad mileage. In some instances such counties, under the present plan, lost one-third of their taxable property. When the time comes, if it has not come now, when further advances in utility rates will not be possible the tendency must be to create new sources of revenue. Comes with it the necessity for a revision of the entire tax system and to this end, for some years, certainly since 1921, many thoughts have been directed.

Mr. Riley's speech is one more call for that convention which will consider tax reforms in California.

Liability Insurance For All

San Francisco Chronicle

At its coming session, the Legislature will be asked by the California Municipal Traffic League to enact a law compelling motorists to carry public and property liability insurance. This and approval of a uniform traffic ordinance for all California cities were the high spots in the conference just closed in Fresno.

The Commonwealth club has gone exhaustively into the question of compulsory liability insurance. At one of its recent meetings it was brought out that there are more than 600,000 automobiles driven in California by persons who could not pay damages in case of serious accident caused by them. It was pointed out that in the coming year 18,000 accidents can be expected from these cars, with probably 12,000 valid claims of $1000 or more, making a loss of $12,000,000 in addition to injuries.

Such is the condition on which advocates of compulsory liability insurance base their argument. It is pitifully expressed in the declaration: If a man cannot afford insurance, the state cannot afford to have him on the road.

In many instances, because of the inability of the driver to take care of the persons he has injured, the church, the state or private charity must accept the burden. And there is a loss in wages and in earning power for which there is no compensation. Against compulsory insurance, it is argued that such legislation would be paternalistic, and that it would lead the state into the liability insurance business. But advocates have an answer to that. In the case of Massachusetts, which has a compulsory motor car liability insurance business, has not gone into the insurance business.

The main point in the discussion is that thousands of people have been and will be injured in motor car accidents in which they are not to blame, and that in many cases they will find the driver is not financially responsible for the damage.

Employers now are required to carry insurance for employees' accident compensation. Compulsory motor liability insurance would provide similar compensation. It would give the victims a chance to collect.

Reminder of R. L. S.

San Francisco Chronicle

If the spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson is not impelled by the laws of the shadow world to haunt that Samoan grave "under the wide and starry sky," we know that last Monday night it hovered in delight above a sea fight eighty miles off Hong-kong.

Pity it is that ghosts may not write. What a tale his could tell of that battle! He would not have to draw on his sanguinary imagination. There were blood and valor enough in the unvarnished facts to make the foundation of another "Treasure Island."

Two English sailormen, charged with the traditions of 300 years of the British navy, broke loose from the Chinese pirates who had captured their ship, procured arms, repelled the attack of forty buccaniers, killed twelve of them in a battle mid flames of the burning boat, drove off the survivors and procured the capture of nine of them.

Never did Jim Hawkins see so much bloodshed in so short a time. Alan Breck himself would have been forced against his vanity to admit that even he never put up so bonnie a fight. What a pity Stevenson was not there. But was he not? The fight took place at midnight, when, if ever, graves give up their dead!

Uniform Traffic Laws

San Francisco Chronicle

California, of all states, needs the greatest possible uniformity in its traffic rules. We spend much money to attract tourists. They will like the state better if learning one set of rules for all the towns will save them from being ticketed. It is annoying to have to learn by way of the police station that what a red signal means in one town is the opposite to what it means in another.

Some progress has already been made. These cities—Los Angeles, Santa Cruz, Glendale, Anaheim, Bakersfield, San Bernardino, Delano, Colton, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Santa Monica—have adopted the uniform traffic ordinance recommended by the two California automobile associations. And Oxnard, Whittier, El Segundo, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Pasadena, Long Beach, El Monte, Tujunga, Sacramento, San Leandro and San Jose are thinking about joining.

Another Hot One

The Hall of Heroism

Long Beach Sun

It is significant that in the international high school referendum on "heroes" no soldier except Washington and Joan of Arc qualified for a place among the 12 greatest. Similar referenda in France have put Pasteur above Napoleon and it was to be expected that he would have a place among the 12. That he takes precedence of Lincoln, Columbus, Washington and Franklin gives evidence that while the American vote was doubtless dominant, Pasteur's name must have been on all lists.

It was probably the vote of other than American boys and girls which put in all the names which appeared in the list below Woodrow Wilson's name. A possible exception is Florence Nightingale, whose name has come to be as widely known in America as in England especially because of the rise of the nurse as a heroic figure in the war.

Gutenberg was voted for because of what his art has grown to be; Stephenson because his steam engines have encircled the world, and Livingston because he opened to the light a dark continent. It is to the credit of those young voters that one who in his day was accused of being a corrupter of youth should now be the sole philosopher to sit in the Hall of Heroism.

Richard Watson Gilder's poem, "In Time of Peace," began:

"Was said: 'When roll of drum and battle's roar
Shall cease upon the earth, oh, then no more
The deed, the race, of heroes in the land.'" sang his citations of new heroes that had never had their heroic chance in war. The present list of world heroes not only gives presage of new types of heroes in the future but also reappraises the heroisms of the past.

Worth While Verse

A WISH
Mine be a cot beside a hill;
A bee-hive's hum shall soothe my ear;
A willow brook that turns a mill,
With many a fall shall linger near.

The swallow, oft beneath my thatch
Shall twitter from her clay-built nest;
Oft shall the pilgrim lift the latch,
And share my meal, a welcome guest.

Around my ivied porch shall spring
Each fragrant flower that drinks the dew;
And Lucy, at her wheel, shall sing
In russet-gown and apron blue.

The village church among the trees,
Where first our marriage vows were given,
With merry peals shall swell the breeze
And point with taper spire to Heaven.

ON THE SIDE LINES

Which May or May Not Be in Accord With the Views of The Register
By Horace McPhee

FOOD FOR THOUGHT—When the first reports of the recent election went from California there was great rejoicing in New York over what was supposed to be a "wet" victory in this state. Nearly every newspaper in New York state is reported as commenting joyfully over California's stand in favor of annulling the prohibitory law of the nation.

Later, when it was disclosed that California had stood for law enforcement there was no joy.

NOT SO JOYFUL—Soon afterwards an official report of the New York state hospital commission gave the people of that state something to think about with the joy element entirely lacking.

The commission made a report in which it said that the proportion of alcoholic cases of insanity to the total number of admissions to institutions had decreased two-thirds in the United States as a whole from 1910 to 1923, but that in New York state it had increased 100 per cent. It gave as the reason for the great national decline the eighteenth amendment and a great change in the habits of the people with reference to drinking liquor.

OLD FASHIONED, PERHAPS, BUT PREFERABLE—San Bernardino county is very proud, and justly so, of its new court house which has just been completed and is one of the finest buildings of the kind to be found in the state of California.

Especially proud are the taxpayers, and all in charge of the work, of the tablet or inscription which may fittingly be given a prominent position on the new building: B. W. G., the interpretation being: "Built without graft."

Orange county has been putting up just that kind of public buildings for a great many years. They are, in all respects, a great deal more satisfactory than those built in accordance with what seems to be more modern ideas.

ACCOUNTS FOR ESCAPES—Some day, perhaps, Los Angeles will become a convert to the idea that public buildings can, and ought to be, erected on the "B. W. G." plan. But, according to seemingly well authenticated reports, nothing of the kind has been done there for a long time.

It is stated, on good authority, that the great and very expensive county court house recently built by our neighboring county, and in the building of which the jail was given the place of distinction, was so full of graft in the construction that no self respecting criminal is willing to stay overnight in the building. Hence the large number of "escapes" from the Los Angeles county jail.

A GREAT MONUMENT—Sergeant Alvin C. York, who by common consent has been acclaimed the greatest hero of the American forces in the big war, is to have a monument which will mean more than "storied urn or animated bust." York has "shouldered" arms against the lack of educational facilities which have for so long been a blight upon the lives of the boys and girls of his native state, Tennessee. He has founded the Alvin C. York Institute at Jamestown, for agricultural and vocational training. He has enlisted the sympathy of business and professional men of national prominence in the project, and they actively are at work helping him "put it over."

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S BIG SHOW—San Bernardino county is again making ready for its big orange show, and plans are in the making to have it as good as, and if possible better than, ever before.

The wonderful success achieved by the Orange Show may be judged from the fact that the attendance last year was more than 250,000 during the ten days of the show.

Twice as many people visited the Orange Show as visited the state fair at Sacramento last fall, although the latter is heavily subsidized by the state, the southern part paying, as usual, some sixty per cent of the subsidy.

PESSIMISTIC MR. WELLS—H. G. Wells, who seems to be of the opinion that he could, if he wished, make a world far superior to this, gives the following cheerful little definition of what we call life:

"The common human life is a tissue of expectations that are never realized and anticipations that are never fulfilled, of toil for unsatisfying ends and pursuing anxieties, of outrageous, tormenting desires, of fever and fatigue, anger and repentance, malaise, and death."

WONDER HOW THEY CAUGHT ON?—No use talking, the police of Flushing,

New York, are more than usually bright. At least it would seem so from reading this item from the Waukegan (N. Y.) Daily Sun: "Flushing, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The armless and legless body of a woman was found in a coal bin in the cellar of the Stanford Arms apartments in the fashionable Murray Hill section here today. Police believe the woman was murdered."

SOME RECIPE, THIS—This week's true story is of a young bride who asked her husband to take from the radio a recipe she wanted.

He did his best, but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. "Hands on hips place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes and mix thoroughly in one-half cup of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, lower the legs and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a sieve. Exhale, breathe naturally and sift into bowl."

"Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a boil. In ten minutes remove from the fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soup."

WHY IT FAILED—Perhaps a good summing up of the big Philadelphia exposition, which is about to close with great financial loss, is given by Abe Potash to his friend Mawruss Perlmutter as follows:

"Well, Mawruss, I see where this here Sequicentennial Exposition in Philadelphia lost a lot of money on account there wasn't as many people attended! it everybody hoped, although nobody expected there would be."

PAY OR GO—Complaint having been made to the Marysville city council that some of the city's employees were not at all prompt in the payment of their bills, the city fathers dug up an old city ordinance, which was enacted in 1897 and stood un repealed, and which decreed that all city workers who haven't paid their debts by the next meeting of the council will be fired.

THE ASTUTE MAKEUP MAN—Perhaps the makeup man of a Kansas City newspaper builded better than he knew when he put the "Come to Church Sunday" notices on the fire prevention page.

WHAT OTHER KIND HAS HE?—In a recent communication addressed to the district attorney of Los Angeles county, K. G. Ormiston says: "I have a sort of sneaking idea."

"What other kind of an idea, pray, might Mr. Ormiston be expected to have?"

BOTH WERE SILENT—Even in criminal cases there are sometimes, laughable incidents. Here, for instance are a couple of questions propounded and answers given during the recent trial of the Hall-Mills murder case:

Q. "You saw the mule distinctly?"
A. "Yes."
Q. "And neither of you spoke?"
A. "No."

The Secret

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

IT'S quite an accomplishment to be able to absolutely keep a secret because the natural impulse to tell it is so strong. The child who can refrain from telling a surprise or confidence has developed noteworthy restraint. Grown-ups often thoughtlessly make it harder by being curious. When the child wants to tell his secret help him by saying, "If it's a secret I don't want to know. You just wait till it's time to tell." Each time then that he conquers the telling-impulse his power of restraint and self control is just that much developed and it is that much easier next time to keep his secret.

I've a secret in my ear
Mother whispered there,
It keeps buzzing. "Tell me, tell me,
It would be such fun to yell me!"
But a secret one can't tell
Anybody anywhere.

It will be your birthday soon,
Then you'll know it too.
You know what you're always wishing "Bout when you go minnow fishing.
What you said would work so fine—
But I can't tell you.

That's the thing about a secret,
Gets to be an awful bore.
Just the minute that you tell it,
Might as well stand up and yell it,
'Cause when you have told a secret
It's no secret any more.
